The LION presents its 1958 VERSION of the THREE R's of EDUCATION

FOREWORD

The Three R's! Since the time of the little one-room schoolhouse of great-grandfather's day, these have meant readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic. But during the years that little schoolhouse has gradually changed into the modern consolidated building of today, and with it have changed the concepts of education. Perhaps the graduates of some years ago shudder as they note the hustle and bustle of today's students, busy with their extra curricular activities as well as their actual studying. But too, they may just wish that they could return to share with us these busy years.

With this thought in mind the staff presents to you its interpretation of the 3 R's of today — RUBBING ELBOWS, RACKING BRAINS, RARING TO GO — as we see them carried out by the students of Red Lion High.

GUIDES for the 3 R's

Guiding us through the 3 R's is the administration . . . the school board, currently engaged in plans for a new school, the principals, who work to keep the organization in running order, and the teachers, who preside over the classrooms. Our closest association is probably with the latter, whose patience is often worn thin when students show little interest in the courses they are being taught. On the other hand, give them an enthusiastic class and their efforts are rewarded thrice.

Although we may not realize it, these are some of the best friends we will ever have. If we think hard enough, all of us can remember the time when a word of encouragement from a teacher meant the difference between being just so-so or attaining a coveted goal. Because they are sometimes quick to scold us when we do wrong, we tend to forget they are nearly always among the first to commend us when we do something well. Whether rubbing elbows, racking brains, or raring to go, students share many memorable moments with these friendly advisors.

ADMINISTRATORS, DIRECTING THE EDUCATION

MR. DAN B. KULP, Supervising Principal . . . Ursinus College, B. S.; University of Pennsylvania, M. A. . . . as head of Red Lion Area School, finds many duties beyond the walls of our own high school, be they educational or civic.

To the Students of R.L.A.H.S.:

It is the aim of the administration and faculty to serve as guides and counselors so that each student can develop to the highest point of his abilities.

It is our sincere hope that every graduate from our school may realize fully the remarkable opportunity for personal development. Graduation from high school is only the beginning; more preparation, more study and more hard work must continue if you are going to achieve the success that awaits you.

There are great opportunities for service, and each year these opportunities increase. No man can do more than serve to the best of his ability his God and his fellow man.

May I extend to each of you my sincere wishes that not only success be granted to you, but you so live that your life will be a guide to those who follow.

Dan B. Kulp

For our secretaries — Mrs. Jeannette Trout, Beryl Russell, and Nancy Henry — mimeograph ink, files, notices, dictation are all a part of the day's routine, to be taken with a smile.

OF SOME NINE HUNDRED STUDENTS

To the Students of R.L.A.H.S.:

With pride it can be said to the student body of Red Lion Area High School that each individual who has the privilege of sharing in our school environment also has the opportunity to make himself a more qualified person for successful, happy living. Remember, however, to qualify oneself for any task requires work—physical, mental, or spiritual.

We of the faculty find it a responsibility to provide for our students an environment conducive to good work and an opportunity to feel the satisfaction of accomplishment.

It is our fondest dream that those of you who are leaving us have taken full advantage of our educational provisions. We sincerely hope those of you who are to continue in sharing our school facilities do not fail to reap the harvest that is yours for only the desire to learn.

Frederick P. Sample

MR. FREDERICK P. SAMPLE, High School Principal . . . Lebanon Valley College, A. B.; Pennsylvania State University, M. Ed. . . . in his first year as principal, is always on hand to take care of the students' problems, no matter how small they may be.

TEACHERS, SHOWING CAREFREE MOMENTS

Mrs. Dorothy S. Adams . . . West Chester State Teachers College, B. S. . . . English, Music . . . Night of Music, Girls Chorus, Mixed Chorus, Commencement . . . has a fascinating hobby of weaving.

Mr. Richard H. Baldwin . . . Lebanon Valley College, A. B.; University of Pittsburgh, M. Ed. . . . History . . . Dramatic Club, Senior Play, Junior Play, Eighth Grade Advisor . . . to whom at least three fourths of the world is a stage.

Mr. John R. Beckley . . . Yale University, A. B. . . . Science, Mathematics . . . Ushers . . . his farming, fishing, and swimming occasionally giving way to a good book.

Mrs. Dorothy S. Bowers . . . Susquehanna University, B. S.; Columbia University, M. A. . . . Commercial Subjects . . . Commencement, Class Day, National Honor Society . . . has sidelines in woodwork and music.

Mr. Francis P. Bradney . . . Lock Haven State Teachers College, B. S. . . . Mathematics . . . his hobby, hunting.

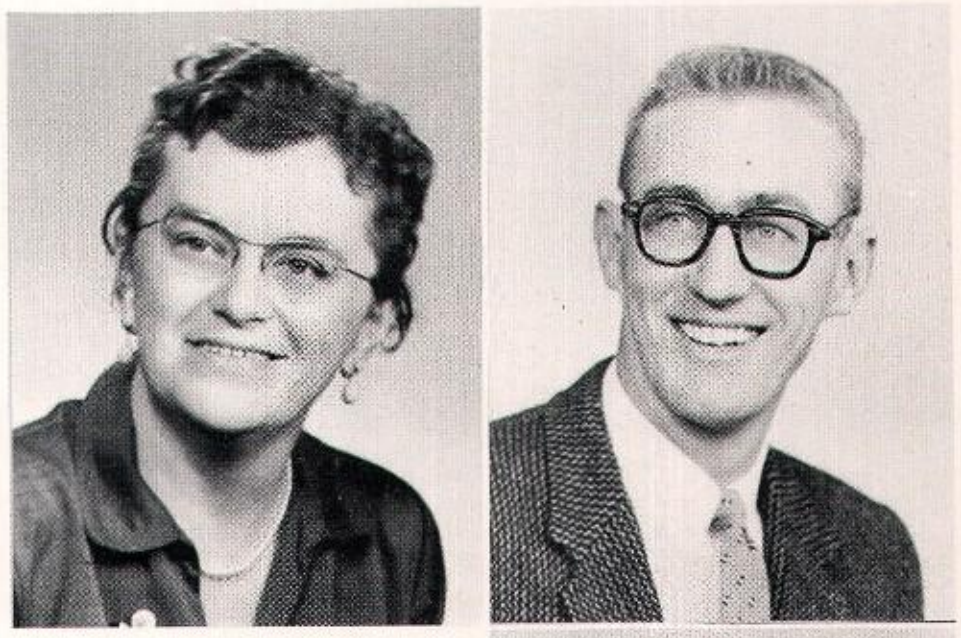
Springtime, and faculty members with their families gather at the Sam Lewis State Park for their picnic. Could that be a hot dog Miss Mitchell is using to threaten Mr. Frits?

ALONG WITH THEIR MORE SERIOUS SIDE . . .

MISS HELEN E. CLEVENGER . . . American University, A. B.; University of Maryland, M. A. . . . Latin . . . Lion . . . has relegated gardening to second place since finding courage to drive.

MRS. ALETA EHRHART . . . Bloomsburg State Teachers College, B. S. . . . Typing, Shorthand . . . Typing for Activities . . . devotes leisure time to crocheting and knitting.

MISS JEANETTE L. ESPENSHADE . . . Elizabethtown College, B. S. . . . Commercial Subjects . . . Prom, Football Programs, Junior Advisor . . . a salesman at heart, with a yen for collecting coins.



MR. RONALD FITZKEE . . . Gettysburg College, A. B. . . . Physical Education, Health . . . Intramurals, Football, Baseball, Basketball, Tumbling Club, Varsity Club . . . his pride and joy—two sons.

MR. CLAIR A. FRITS . . . Grove City College, B. S.; Pennsylvania State University, M. Ed. . . . P. O. D., World History . . . Ushers, Commencement, Junior Advisor . . . a champion at debating.

Something new was added as faculty members preceded the seniors into the auditorium for the 1957 Commencement exercises.

. . . REPRESENTING DIFFERENT INTERESTS . . .

MR. RONALD F. GOODMAN . . . Susquehanna University, B. S. . . . Music . . . Junior High Chorus . . . the traveling musician of Red Lion Area High.

MR. PAUL I. HANGEN . . . Albright College, A. B. . . . Civics . . . Tennis . . . provided with much summer activity by Baseball for Boys program.

MRS. LOUISE D. STRAYER, School Nurse . . . Jefferson Hospital, R. N. . . . takes the temperature of one of the many students who come to the health office daily.

Yes, these are the teachers . . . some of them just starting out in this business of education, others old hands at coping with the unpredictable actions of teenagers. Their training is varied, representing several alma maters, from which quite a few hold advanced degrees or are currently doing graduate work. As for home base, most of them are Pennsylvanians, a good percentage being native Red Lioners. Indeed, on the faculty roster, there's a surprising number of Red Lion alumni—former football men, honor society members and just good all-around students.

MR. DANIEL HEYNE . . . Millersville State Teachers College, B. S.; Pennsylvania State University, M. Ed. . . . Geography, Science . . . Football, Science Club, Seventh Grade Advisor . . . lists coin collecting as one of his more pleasurable pastimes.

MRS. HILDA JACKOWICK . . . Lebanon Valley College, A. B.; Western Maryland College, M. Ed. . . . English . . . Dramatic Club, Class Day . . . takes great pride in her "Voice of Democracy" contestants.

. . . TEACHING A VARIETY OF SUBJECTS . . .

MISS MARIE KEEPORTS . . . Millersville State Teachers College, A. B.; Pennsylvania State University, M. A. . . . English . . . Hilltop, Commencement . . . susceptible to the bite of the travel bug, be it Europe, Bermuda, or just Pennsylvania.

MR. ERVIN KOPP . . . Gettysburg College, B. S. . . . Arithmetic . . . Seventh Grade Advisor, Publicity . . . one of the many sports enthusiasts in our high school.

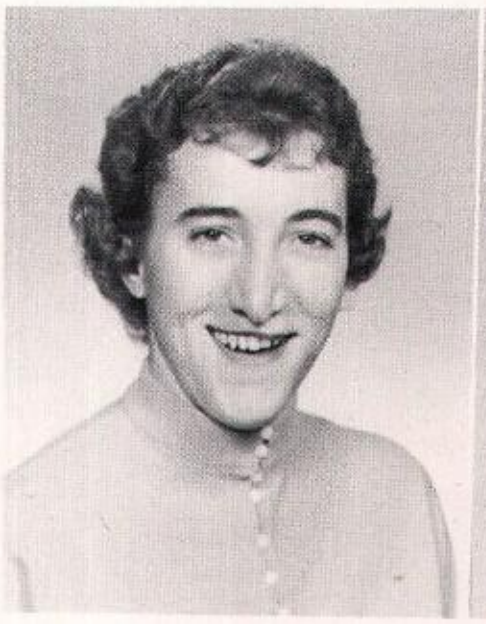
Teachers are very much alive . . . their activities cover as wide a field as the activities of any senior. A full day of teaching, plus hours of correcting papers . . . oh yes! they have homework, too. They also manage somehow to share actively in the projects of civic and professional organizations. Tickets to be sold at games and plays, rehearsals held after school, chaperons needed for buses or dances—for every instance there's a teacher, volunteer or draftee, ready and willing to assist. And to complete the twenty-four hours, some have even admitted dreaming about their classes or extracurricular projects.

MRS. CAROL STARKEY, Dental Hygienist . . . Temple University, D. H. . . . her biggest job, the annual dental check-up of all Red Lion students.

MR. DALTON LANDIS . . . Millersville State Teachers College, B. S. . . . Industrial Arts, Mathematics . . . Stage Crew, Prom . . . his special interests—golf and house designing.

MRS. BETTY LAUCKS . . . Indiana State Teachers College, B. S. . . . Home Economics . . . F. H. A., Costumes for Activities . . . a whiz at anything from cooking to antique furniture.

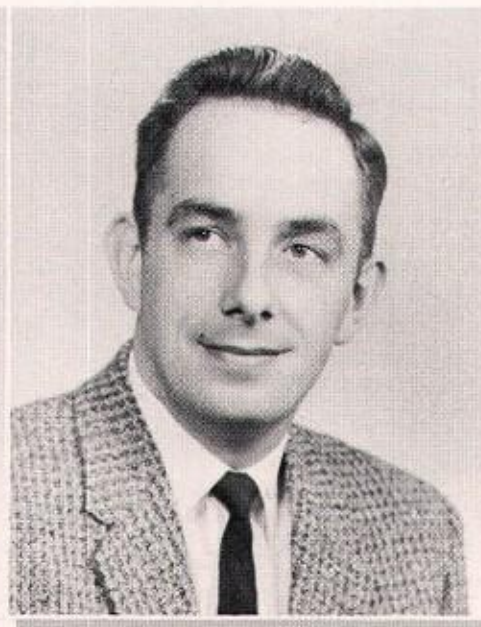
. . . WITH AN EYE TO THE FUTURE



MISS NANCY K. MITCHELL . . . Gettysburg College, A. B. . . . Physical Education, Health . . . Dancing Club, Cheerleading, G. A. A. . . . an enthusiastic participant in club field hockey.

MR. DANIEL E. MYERS . . . Elizabethtown College, A. B.; Columbia University, M. A. . . . Science . . . Ninth Grade Advisor . . . fond of sports in general and music.

MR. HAROLD M. MYERS . . . Shippensburg State Teachers College, B. S.; Pennsylvania State University, M. Ed. . . . American History . . . Sophomore Advisor, Ushers . . . puts his hobby, wood working, to good use at home.



MR. JOHN G. MYERS . . . Pennsylvania State University, B. S. . . . Agriculture . . . F. F. A. . . . frequently lured by the call, "the fish are biting."

MISS NAOMI MYERS . . . Bloomsburg State Teachers College, B. S. . . . English . . . Ninth Grade Advisor . . . the proud possessor and pilot of her own boat on Lake Carey.

A pleasant finish for a busy day—new and old members of the high school and grade faculty get acquainted as they enjoy their punch and cookies.

BUT WITH MINDS ON THE PRESENT . . .

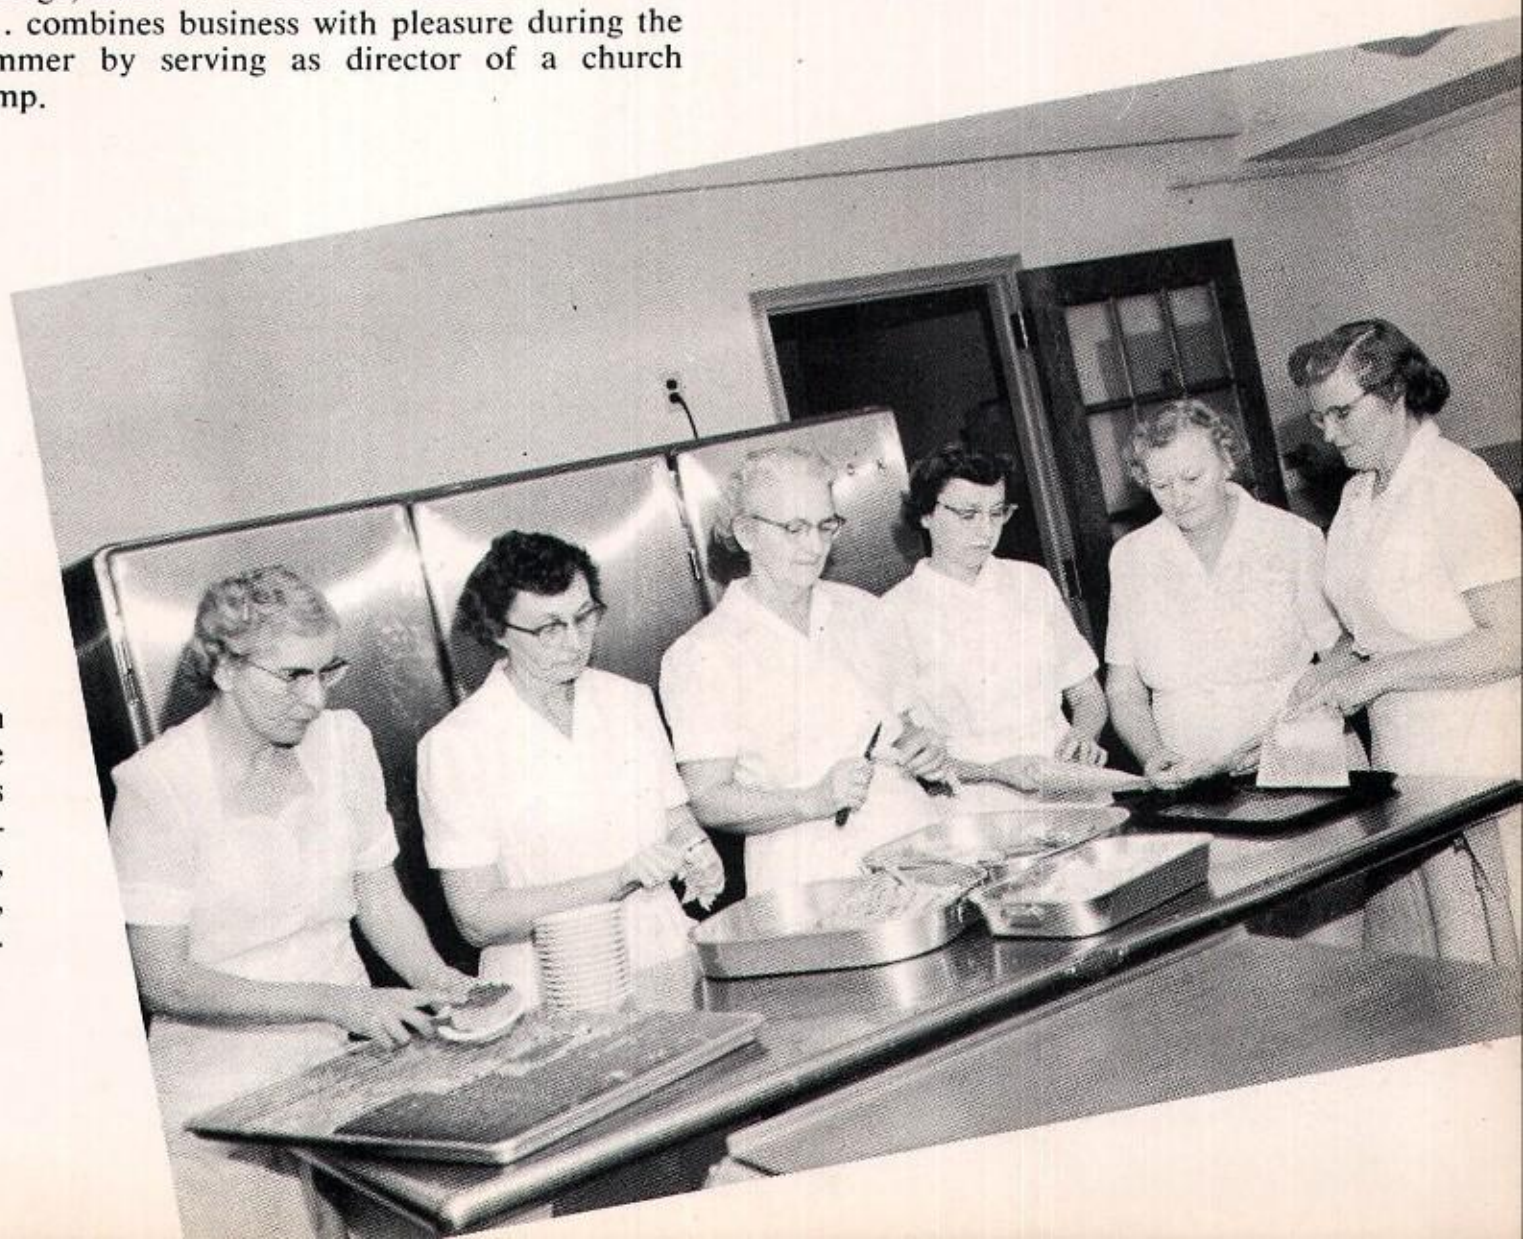
MR. CHARLES R. NITCHKEY . . . East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, B. S.; Pennsylvania State University, M. Ed. . . . Physical Education, Health . . . Director of Athletics, Student Council, Golf, Volleyball . . . a fisherman and reader of Civil War history.

MISS LINDA S. NONEMAKER . . . Millersville State Teachers College, B. S. . . . French, English . . . Junior Red Cross . . . a collector of miniature dogs.

MR. WILLIAM E. NYER . . . Susquehanna University, B. S. . . . English, Arithmetic . . . responds readily to the call of the outdoors.

MR. FREELAND E. SHAFFER . . . Shippensburg State Teachers College, B. S. . . . Physics, Chemistry . . . Photography Club, Lion, Senior Advisor, Class Day . . '. our authority in the field of electronics.

MRS. EDNA SHECKART . . . Lebanon Valley College, B. S. . . . Guidance Director . . . Prom . . . combines business with pleasure during the summer by serving as director of a church camp.

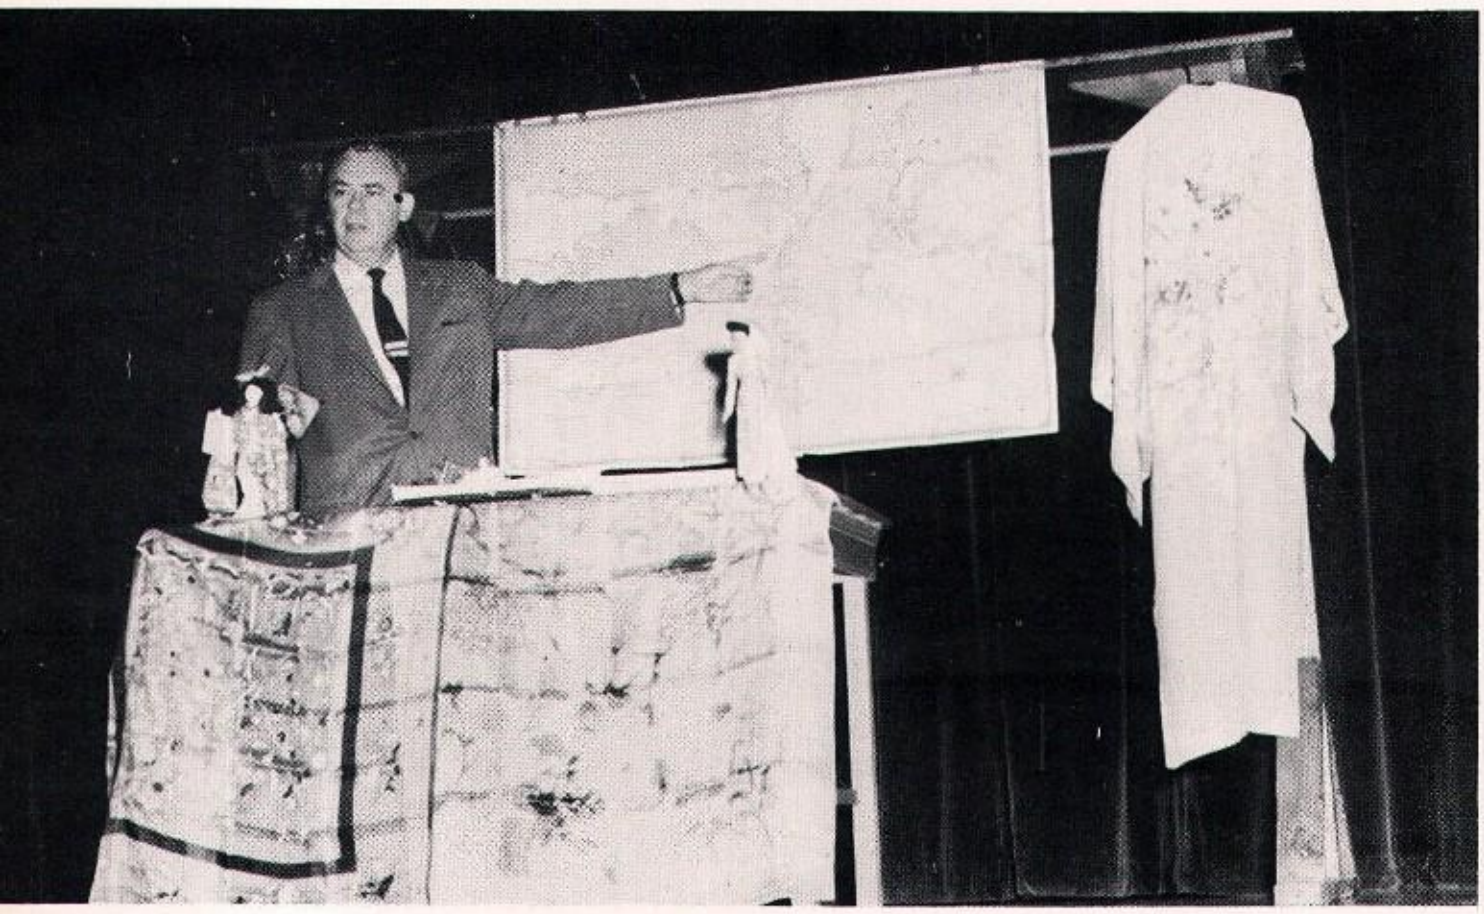


As the old saying goes, "You can think better on a full stomach." The difficult task of keeping our appetites satisfied falls to our cafeteria workers—Mrs. A. Smith, Mrs. G. Smith, Mrs. E. Kunkle, Mrs. G. Smeltzer, Mrs. A. Kunkle, and Mrs. I. Stabley.

. . . GUIDING US THROUGH BUSTLING YEARS . . .

MR. THEODORE SHECKART . . . Elizabethtown College, B. S.; Temple University, M. S. . . . Guidance Director . . . Class Day . . . our first full time guidance counselor, and a fisherman, too.

MR. DALE SHELLENBERGER . . . Lebanon Valley College, A. B. . . . English, Geography . . . Football, Track . . . to whom football comes first, with his dog, a boxer, running a close second.



Back from a year's sabbatical leave, Mr. Shoemaker has many fascinating tales for the students concerning his around-the-world trip.

On duty at night, Harold To makes periodic trips to the bo room to keep the furna running.

MR. ROBERT K. SHENBERGER . . . Millersville State Teachers College, B. S. . . . Driver Education . . . needs nerves of steel and the patience of Job in his work.

MRS. HILDA K. SHERMEYER . . . Millersville State Teachers College, B. S. . . . Librarian . . . Library Club . . . interested in many things, especially fishing.

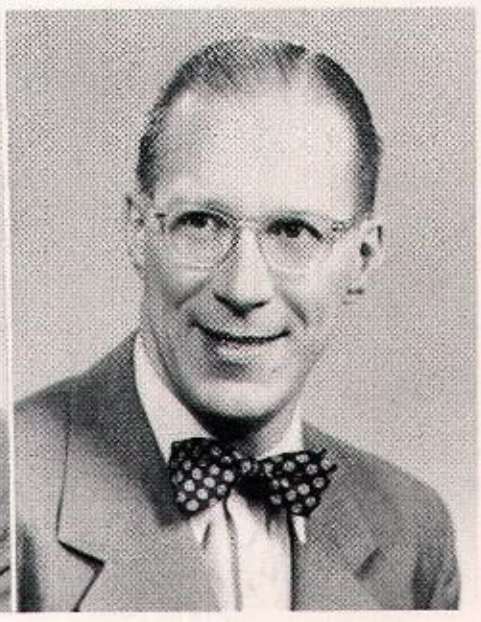
. . . GENEROUSLY GIVING THEIR FREE TIME. . .

MR. N. EUGENE SHOEMAKER . . . Millersville State Teachers College, B. S.; Pennsylvania State University, M. Ed. . . . Biology . . . Biology Club . . . readily provides information on the subject of bees.

MRS. JANET R. SWARTZ . . . Indiana State Teachers College, B. S. . . . Art . . . Decorations, Prom . . . for relaxation, indulges in painting and piano playing.

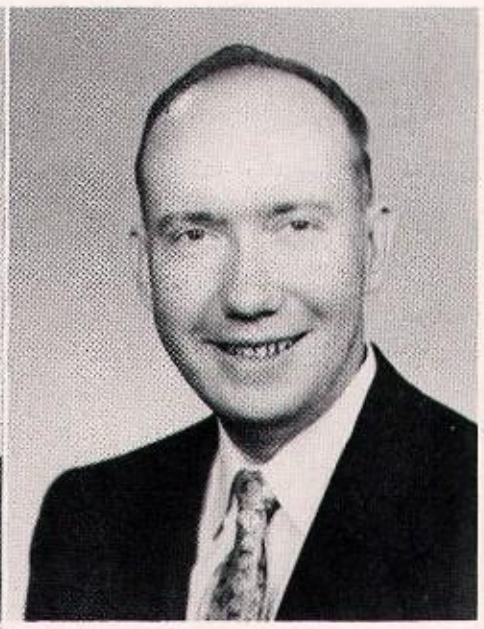
The jobs handled by our janitorial staff are many and varied. Left: Christopher Keener and Cletus Mitzel, head custodian, tackle a carpentering project in the shop. Right: Charles Mitzel sharpens his scythe as he and James Waltemyer struggle to get the weeds under control.

MR. CHARLES W. TOME, JR. . . . Lebanon Valley College, B. S. . . . Civics, History, English . . . Senior Advisor . . . continues his interest in history and current affairs beyond the classroom.



MR. ROBERT P. TSCHOP . . . Lebanon Valley College, B. S. . . . Mathematics . . . Tickets . . . finds great satisfaction in reading and church work.

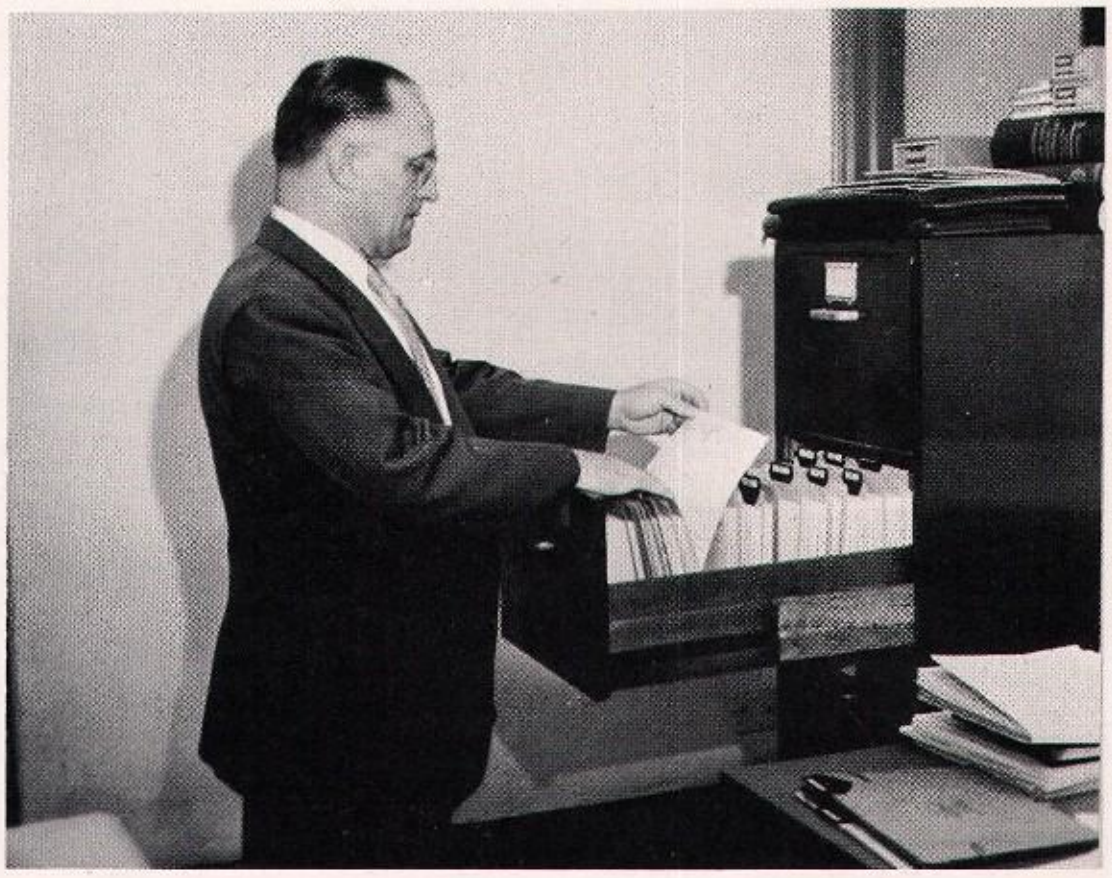
. . . HELPING WITH SIDE ACTIVITIES . . .



MRS. FLORENCE G. UHLER . . . Mansfield State Teachers College, B. S. . . . Home Economics . . . Cafeteria Supervisor, Costumes . . . her hobbies—cooking and crafts.

MR. GEORGE A. WARD . . . West Chester State Teachers College, B. S.; Temple University, M. Ed. . . .Music . . . Band, Orchestra, Commencement, Night of Music . . . an accomplished violinist.

MR. WARD S. YORKS . . . Millersville State Teachers College, B. S.; Pennsylvania State University, M. Ed. . . . Industrial Arts . . . School Printing . . . a very clever man with wood and cameras.

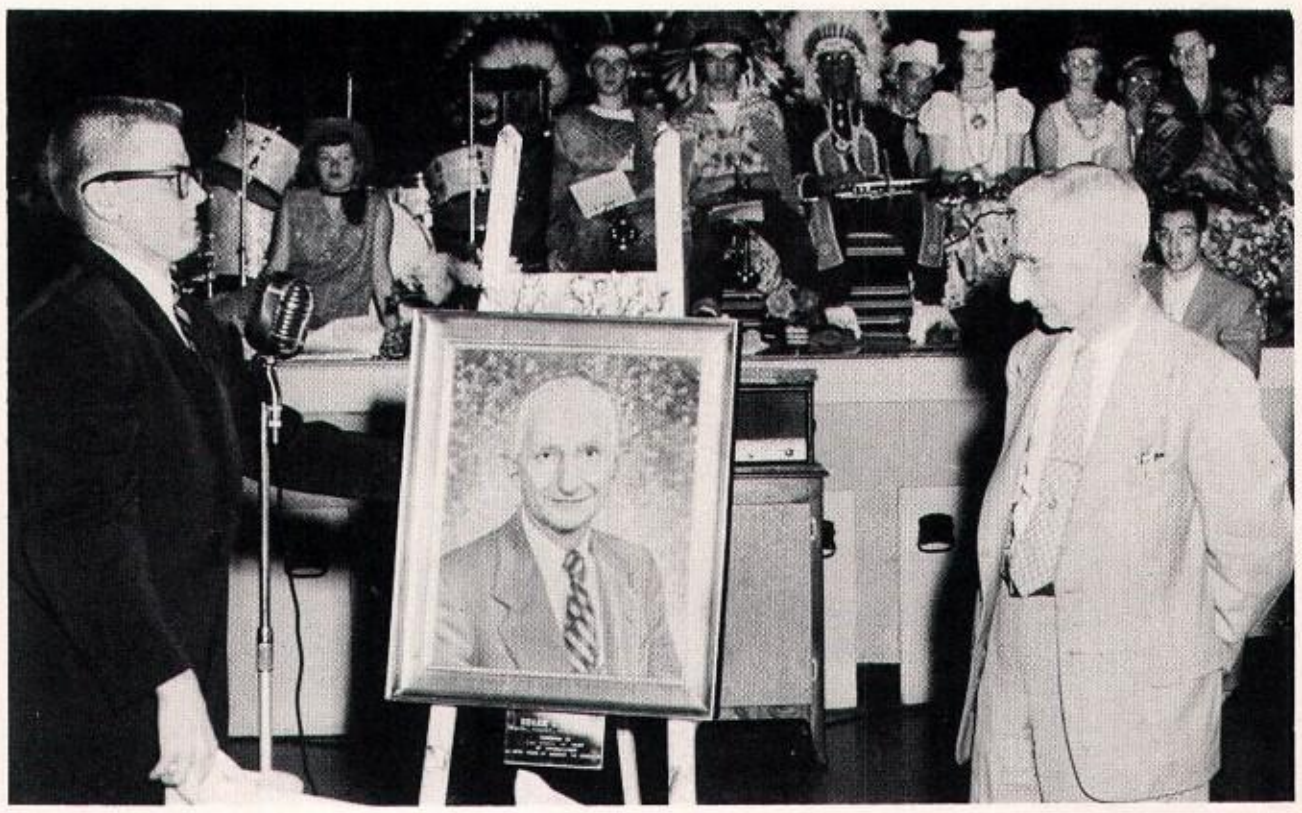


MR. MARTIN F. MILLER, Home and School Visitor . . . Dickinson College, A. B. . . . looks over student information among his files, a part of his daily routine.

MRS. ANITA W. ZARFOS . . . East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, B. S. . . . Physical Education, Health . . . G. A. A., Tumbling Club . . . whose summers mean swimming and diving.

MR. DAVID S. ZIEGLER . . . Ursinus College, A. B. . . . Mathematics . . . Basketball . . . reads, sleeps, talks, and eats sports.

. . . BEFRIENDING AS WELL AS INSTRUCTING



Class Day 1957 . . . Donald Henshaw unveils the portrait of Mr. Moore, presented to the school by the graduating class.

Board members, teachers, and friends gather at the Country Club for a dinner held in honor of our principal, retiring with a fifty-year record.

For Mr. Edgar C. Moore, June marked the completion of fifty years as teacher and principal in the Red Lion Area schools. Beginning in 1907, when his job as teacher included sawing wood for the stove, then becoming principal in 1945, Mr. Moore has guided many students through their difficult years. To him, at the commencement season, came the tributes of his friends and co-workers.

Mr. Moore accepts the token package from Miss Elizabeth Hake and Dr. W. S. Dellinger, while Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Moore, and Mr. Kulp smilingly look on.

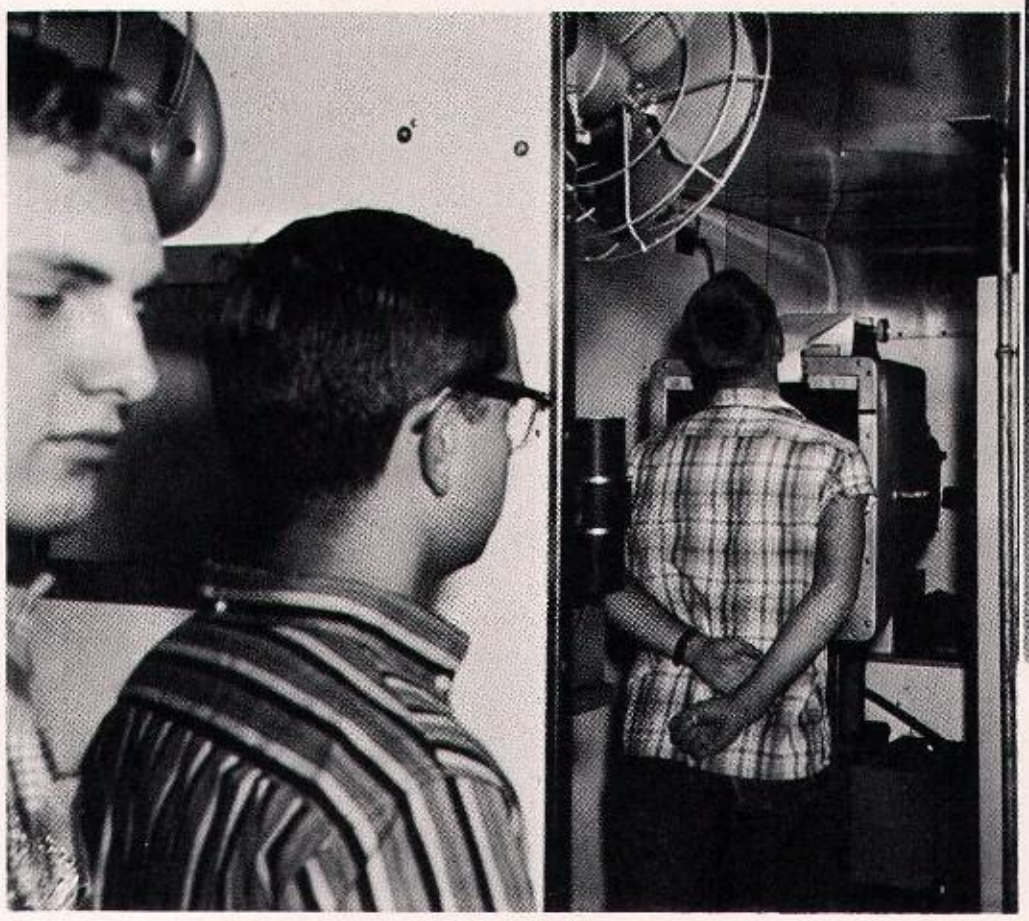
RUBBING ELBOWS

Rubbing Elbows, the first of the "3 R's," is one that concerns nearly all of us. To meet and get acquainted with new individuals is a very important part of our life, especially in school. Everyone, whether he admits it or not, needs friends and the more you have the happier you will be. The person who spills coke on you at the basketball game or mustard at the football game can turn out to become an important friend later on in your life. The student who thinks the world is unfriendly is seriously confused and should take advantage of the many opportunities to rub elbows with his fellow students at R. L. A. H. S.

One of these comes with Thursday clubs. Here students find not only a welcome break from routine but also a chance to become acquainted with others with similar interests. The assemblies presented on Friday morning provide another chance to find out about new people, some of whom come great distances to preform for us. Along with these planned entertainments there are several activity periods in which students talk with others in their home rooms. And last, but not least, are the social events with their opportunities to rub elbows and make more new friends, so very important in our school fellowship.

WITH HOME ROOMS, NEW FRIENDSHIPS

The chest X-ray is only one of the steps required of would-be members of the football team, but Rickey Schmuck, Larry Moore, Dana McGinnis, sophomores that they are, don't appear perturbed.



Carol Krewson and Joyce Dixon hurry to board the bus at the close of a very busy day.

What a cold spot for cramming! . . . but perhaps juniors Janice Leiphart, Mary Lehr, and Nancy Kilgore prefer it that way.

High excitement during the World Series. The score board in the hall gives James Snyder, Joann Smith, and Dwight Grove a chance to check their favorites en route to class.

Holding the reins for this year's junior class are Dale Smith, president; Joyce Brenneman, secretary; Betty Bosley, treasurer; and Dwight Grove, vice-president. Watch out, girls, that's a long drop down to next floor.

By now the JUNIORS have become well-established in school life as football and basketball players, cheerleaders, majorettes, band members, Hilltop reporters, and in various other ways. As they take part in extracurricular activities they look forward to next year when they will be the ones who shoulder the responsibility of making these activities a success. They have already had a chance to do some of this in the presentation of their class play and in sponsoring the Prom and the Valentine Dance. Also this year they are eligible for membership in the National Honor Society and National Athletic Scholarship Society. Being one of the largest classes in the school, they naturally have a wide area of interests. Already names from their class roster have appeared as winners in forensics and the Voice of Democracy contest, and as entertainers for programs outside of school. A good group, this class of '59, with real possibilities.

AN ACTIVE LIFE FOR SOPHOMORES . . .

Chosen by sophomores to lead their class for the current year—Patricia Jacobs, treasurer; Ronald Arnold, vice-president; Louise Workinger, secretary; Dale Uhler, president.

With plenty of vim and vigor, the SOPHOMORES have entered senior high. Over two hundred in number, they make their presence felt everywhere. This year they can, and do, participate in varsity sports—quite active in J. V. football and count at least two regulars on varsity basketball. Sad to relate, they seem to hold a fall record for injuries, too. They boast the largest class representation in the band, have an impressive number on honor roll, and for the third time claimed first prize for their pep parade float. Socially, they are carrying out their party-a-year custom by scheduling a dance for March. With so much to do and so many events to attend they seem to have less time for study, but these tenth graders are taking all in stride and working harder than ever. Looking to the future, they anticipate being not only the largest class to date to graduate, but, building program co-operating, the first from the new high school.

HOME ROOM 101—Front: Dennis Fitzkee, Harold Anstine, Barry Donagher, Darryl Emenheiser, Trabert Ellis, John Anderson, James Bitner, James Crawford, Gerald Eberly. Second: Bonnie Emenheiser, Cecelia Buchanan, Barbara Ellis, Shelva Ebaugh, Marilyn Fisher, Carol Atkins, Carolyn Boyer, Lynn Downs, Meredith Dotts. Third: Carol Barshinger, Gloria Clark, Marie Deardorff, Norma Braun, Brenda Eveler, Nancy Brenneman, Carolyn Anstine, Marion Cooper, Bobbie Blank, Susan Conn. Fourth: Ronald Bankert, Larry Flaharty, Gary Eaton, Joe Coeyman, Julian Dunnick, Charles Elfner, Nevin Eveler, James Fager, Ronald Arnold. FRESHMEN FROM VARIOUS DISTRICTS . . .

Quick to settle into the study and spirit of the 3 R's are the FRESHMEN, one of our active groups of underclassmen. Some of these students have been with us since seventh grade, and so are old hands at being high school students, but many of them are new in Red Lion Area High this year, which means that they have had to suffer through a period of adjustment . . . making many new friends, learning not to get lost between classes, and taking advantage of the many things our school has to offer them. Probably the most enjoyable of these three has been the fact that they have the opportunity to rub elbows with so many new persons, and because of this many lasting friendships have been formed. But it hasn't taken them long to become acquainted and get into the swing of school life, eager to prepare themselves for that most wonderful time of all, senior high.

Holding a quick conference in the library are the freshman officers—Jan Hall, president; Gene Fake, treasurer; Jetty Craley, vice-president; and Tim Cope, secretary.

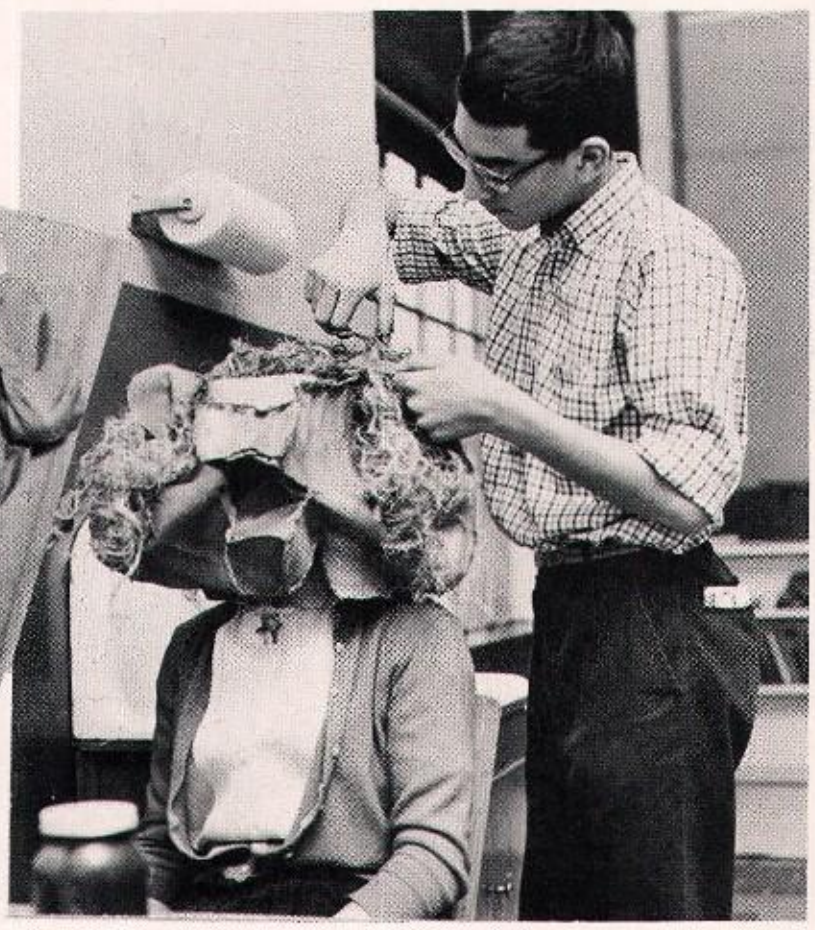
These freshmen don't seem particularly happy that 3:40 has rolled around again. Could it be that they're enjoying what our 3 R's offer them?

An inhabitant of the latest satellite from Mars? No, 'tis only James Klinedinst working on the lion's head for the freshmen float entered in the annual pep rally. Co-artist, Bonnie Finn, takes her turn as model.



EIGHTH GRADERS, NINETY-EIGHT STRONG . . .

At a favorite stopping place in the park eighth grade officers exchange ideas . . . Charles Horn, vice-president; Palmer Ropp, treasurer; Linda Leiphart, president; Susan Sheckart, secretary.

Ah . . . the EIGHTH GRADERS! These junior highers have the reputation for being present wherever there's a bit of excitement, whether the situation relates to classwork or extracurricular activities. Already loyal fans at all sports events, they have been quite busy joining and helping to make each project a success. The junior high Christmas dance, sponsored by this grade, proved to be an example of their spirit. Working silently and efficiently they sold over two hundred tickets for this event while most senior highers were unaware of it. Past the apprehensive stage of seventh graders and not quite ready for the ninth grade adventures into new subjects, these students may at times feel that their work is old stuff, but it doesn't take long for their natural pep to overcome any momentary boredom. Should predictions be in order, it would be safe to say that in the future many from this group will be hitting the headlines in sports, dramatics, and other phases of school life.

YOUNGER FRIENDS, THE SEVENTH GRADERS . . .

Seventh grade officers—Vicki McCleary, vice-president; Karen Grim, treasurer; Linda Wagner, secretary; Susan Thompson, president—get in some last minute studying, or could they be just pretending?

SEVENTH GRADE . . . high school at last! . . . junior high, that is. But that sounds pretty important to these students. Finally they have entered that big building across the street. Everyone gets lost for the first few days, but with the help of friendly teachers and obliging upperclassmen, they begin to feel at home. This year marks the beginning of extracurricular activities such as chorus, band, clubs, and noon-time activities, all of which help to make school more interesting. It is also the beginning of high school social activities. Various dances throughout the year help to form many new friendships. Learning new steps, and having a chance to try them out with that good-looking boy or girl, fill many enjoyable evenings. New classes, such as shop, home economics and gym, furnish a welcome change from the usual routine. Then, there are the many sports events. This year they have an extra meaning, because they are a very important part of YOUR school.

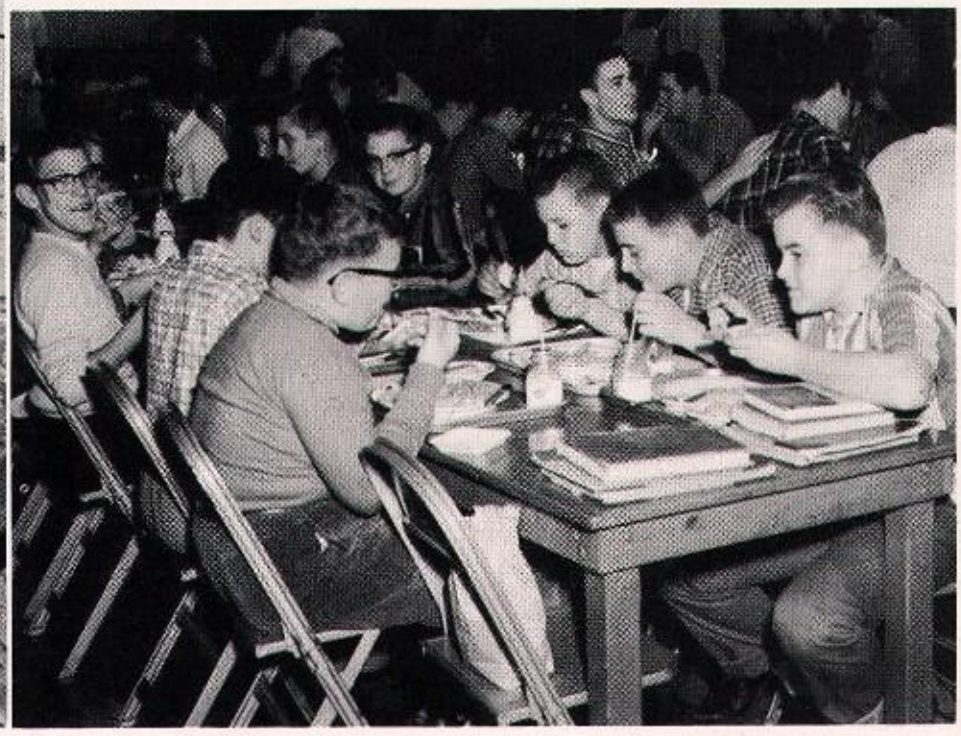
. . . ALL OUT FOR NEW INTERESTS

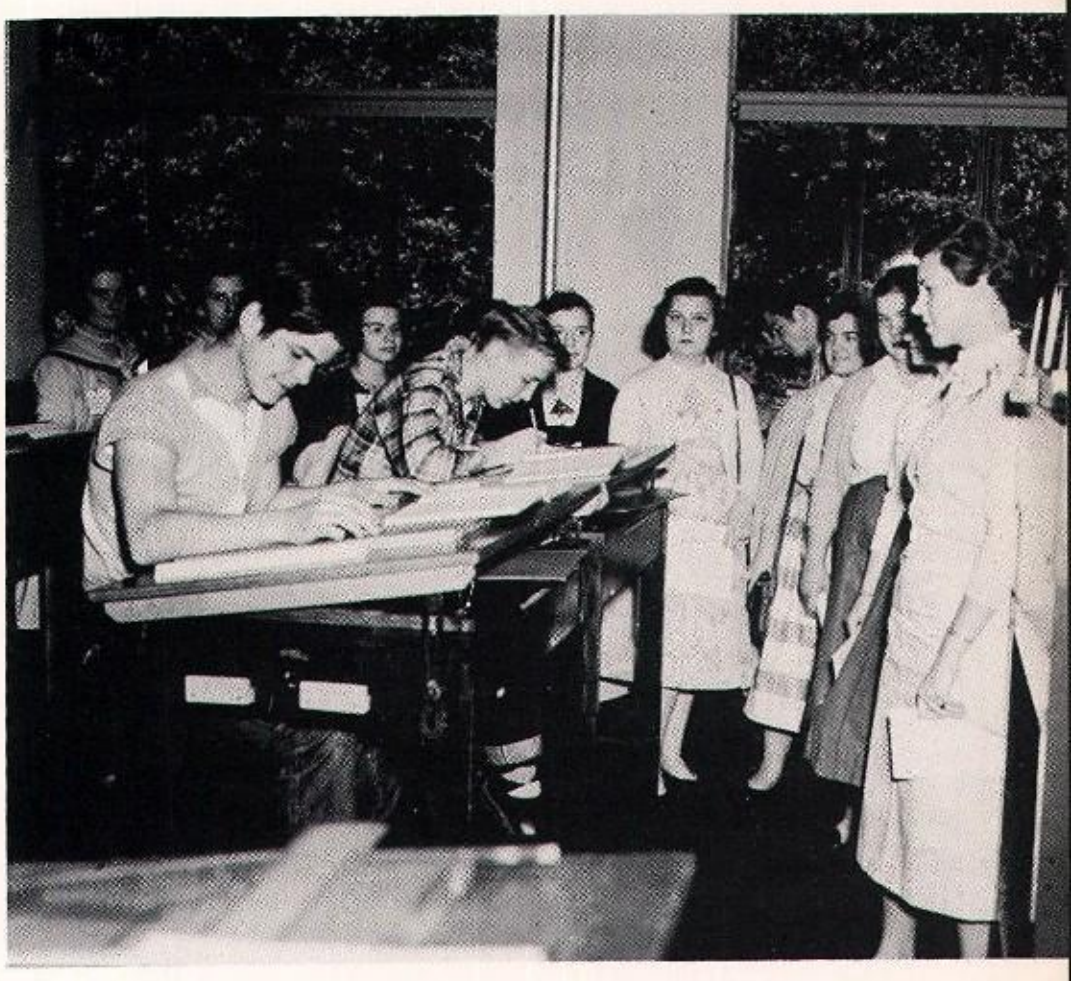
Perhaps these seventh grade boys will turn out to be engineers some day. They seem very interested in the work on the new school, or at least the machinery.

The annual Thanksgiving dinner in our cafeteria . . . and how these hungry eighth graders are enjoying it!



VISITORS—NEXT YEAR'S FRESHMEN

ORIENTATION DAY . . . excitement for some, confusion for others, but a good time for practically everyone, for this is the day on which eighth graders from the nearby schools of Red Lion Area visit their future alma mater. A special assembly, lunch, conferences, a tour of the building . . . and for all, the guides are members of the National Honor Society, who usually wear out long before their charges. Getting acquainted with future classmates is of prime importance to most of the group who by 3:40 are looking forward to returning in September as freshmen, not visitors.



Future students of Red Lion observe one of the mechanical drawing classes during their tour through the building.

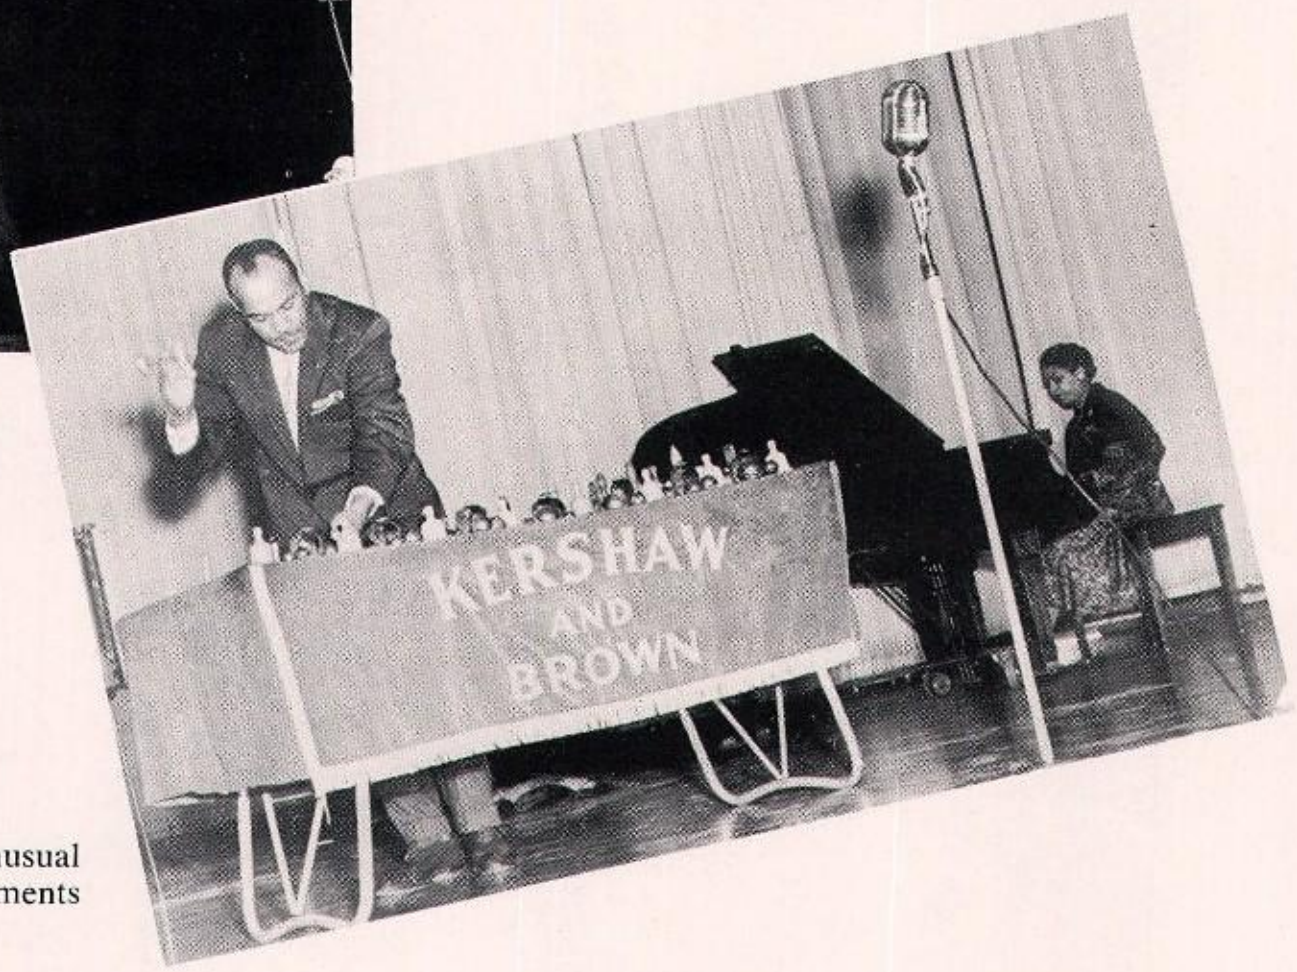
Elaine Glatfelter, assisting with registration, prepares name cards for Dennis Keesey and other Orientation Day visitors.

Mrs. Swartz acquaints the visitors with various projects carried on by art students throughout the year.

IN ASSEMBLY, INTERESTING GUESTS

From as far away as Germany or as close as our home town come our assembly guests. They may be speakers, actors, glass blowers, or musicians. Most of these acts come from the Antrim Bureau, an organization which specializes in arranging for professional programs for high school assemblies. Some organizations, such as Dairy Council, return each year with something new and different.

Mr. Ralph Melville demonstrates the art of glass blowing to a fascinated assembly.

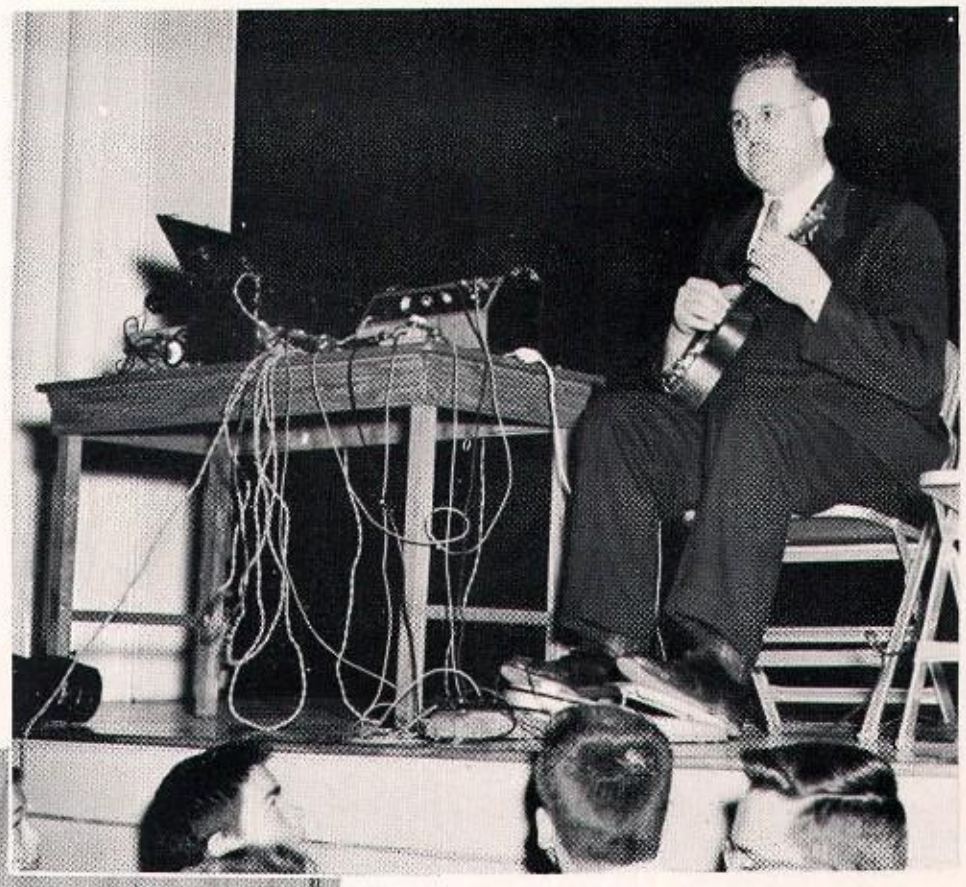


Mr. Charles Kershaw displays his unusual collection of bells. Some of the instruments were Mr. Kershaw's own ideas.

The concert of the Millersville Choir features its interpretation of various popular songs, hymns, and all-time favorites.

RUB ELBOWS AND BECOME FRIENDS

Familiar faces with local talent also appear on our stage during these Friday morning sessions. Businessmen, ministers, and other citizens, many of them alumni, interrupt their busy schedules to visit us from time to time. Whether the programs are informative or purely for amusement, our assemblies are enjoyable occasions for all of us.



Mr. Chester Ramsden provides some very different entertainment with his own invention, the novatar, which produces music by the use of electronics.

"It's Magic" is the theme of the Dairy Council program carried through by the representative, Mr. Bill Baker.

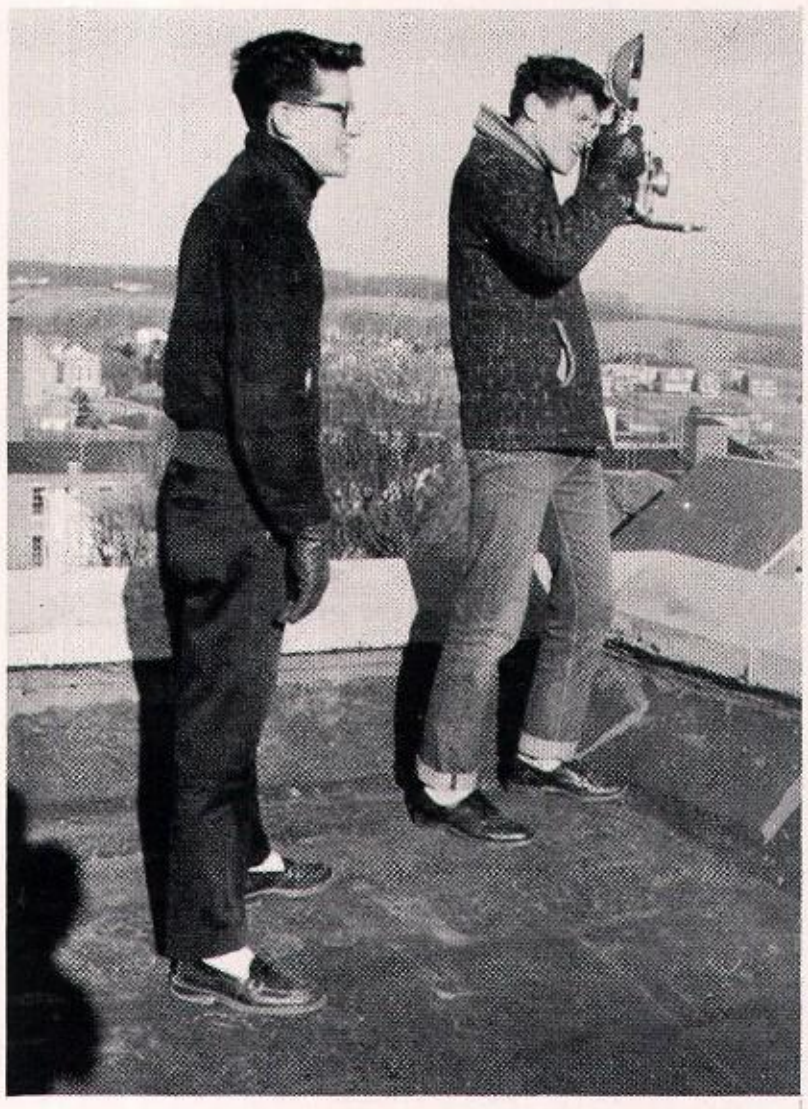
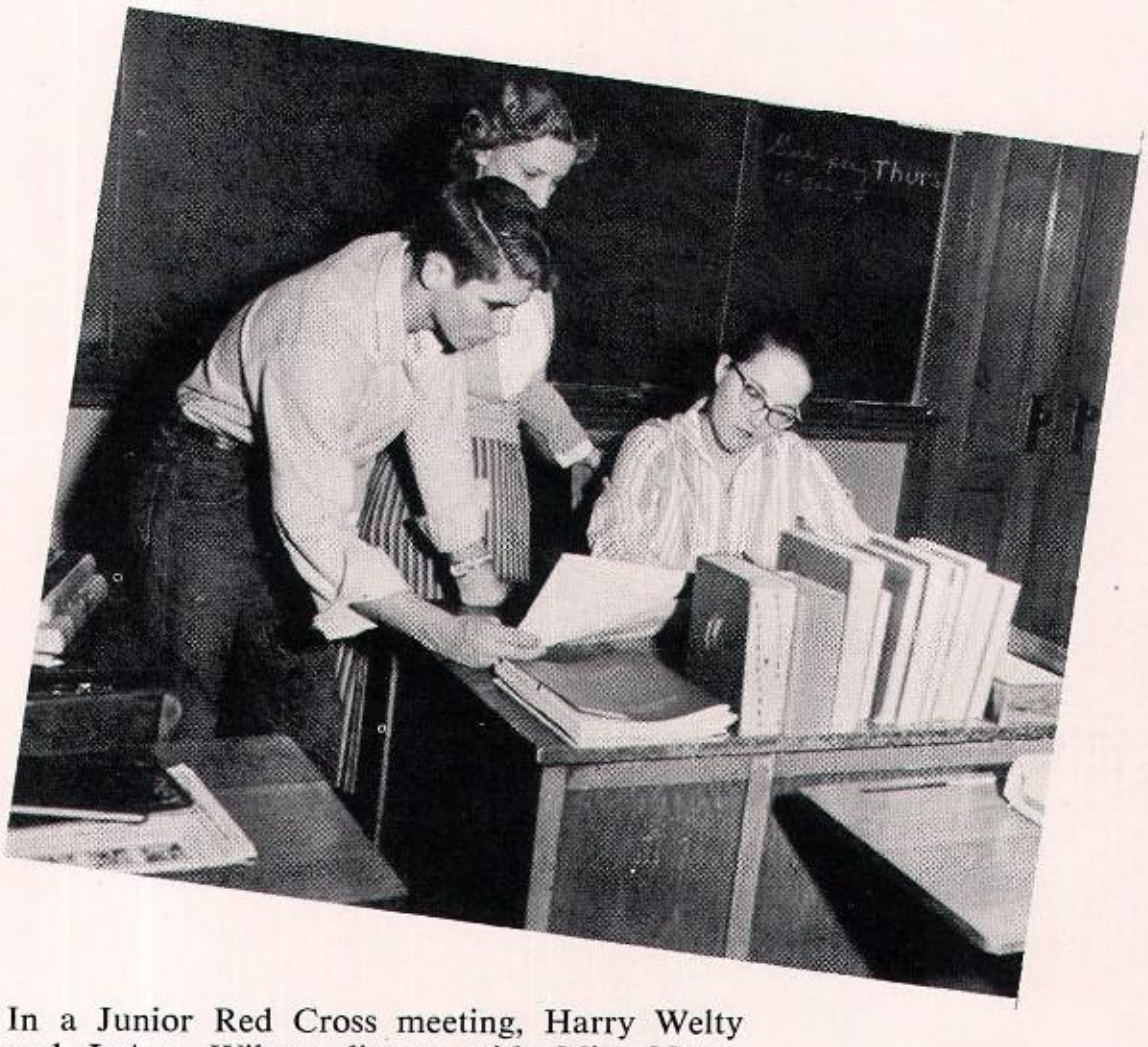
THURSDAY MORNING . . . VARIETY PLUS



Photographers may be found anywhere! Rodney Jamison and Dean Heffner, on an assignment for town shots, have to be rescued from the roof after their uncooperative ladder deserts them.

Thursday morning provides extra shop time for some of the boys. Under the watchful eye of the student teacher, Mr. Withers, Bill Sechrist sands his foundry project and Dennis Strayer struggles with the drill.

An unusual pose, to say the least, but it's merely a practicing trio from the Dancing Club —Betty Bosley, Joyce Brenneman, and Sue Mitzel.

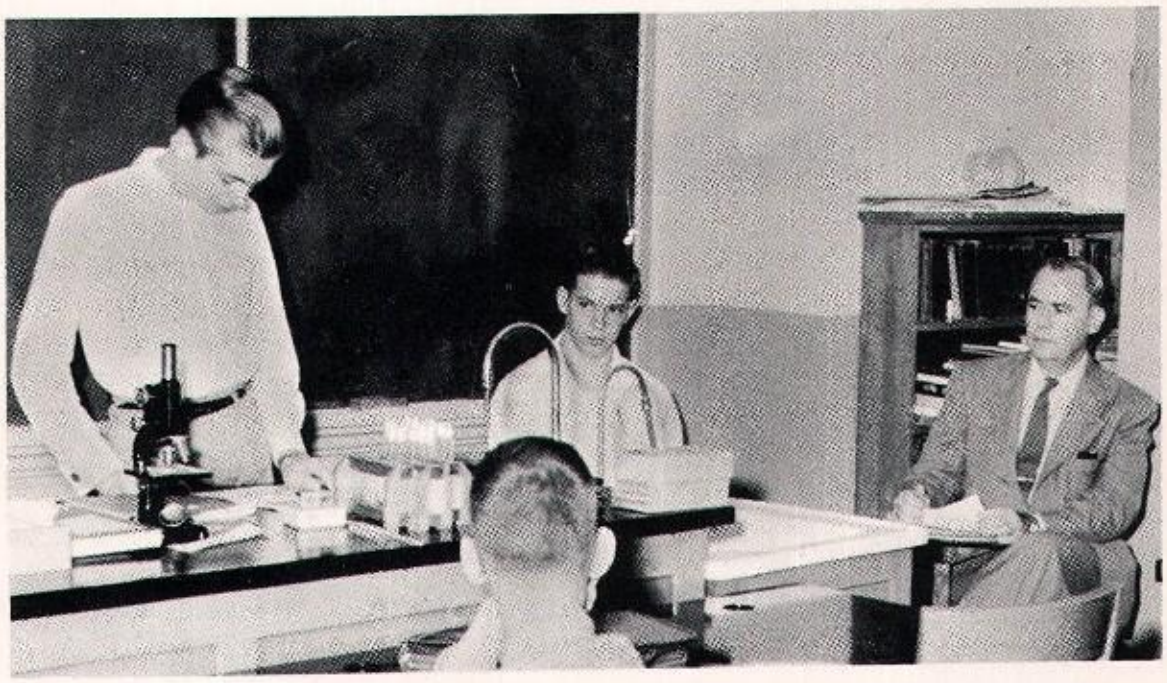


In a Junior Red Cross meeting, Harry Welty and JoAnn Wilson discuss with Miss Nonemaker the scrapbooks to be sent abroad.

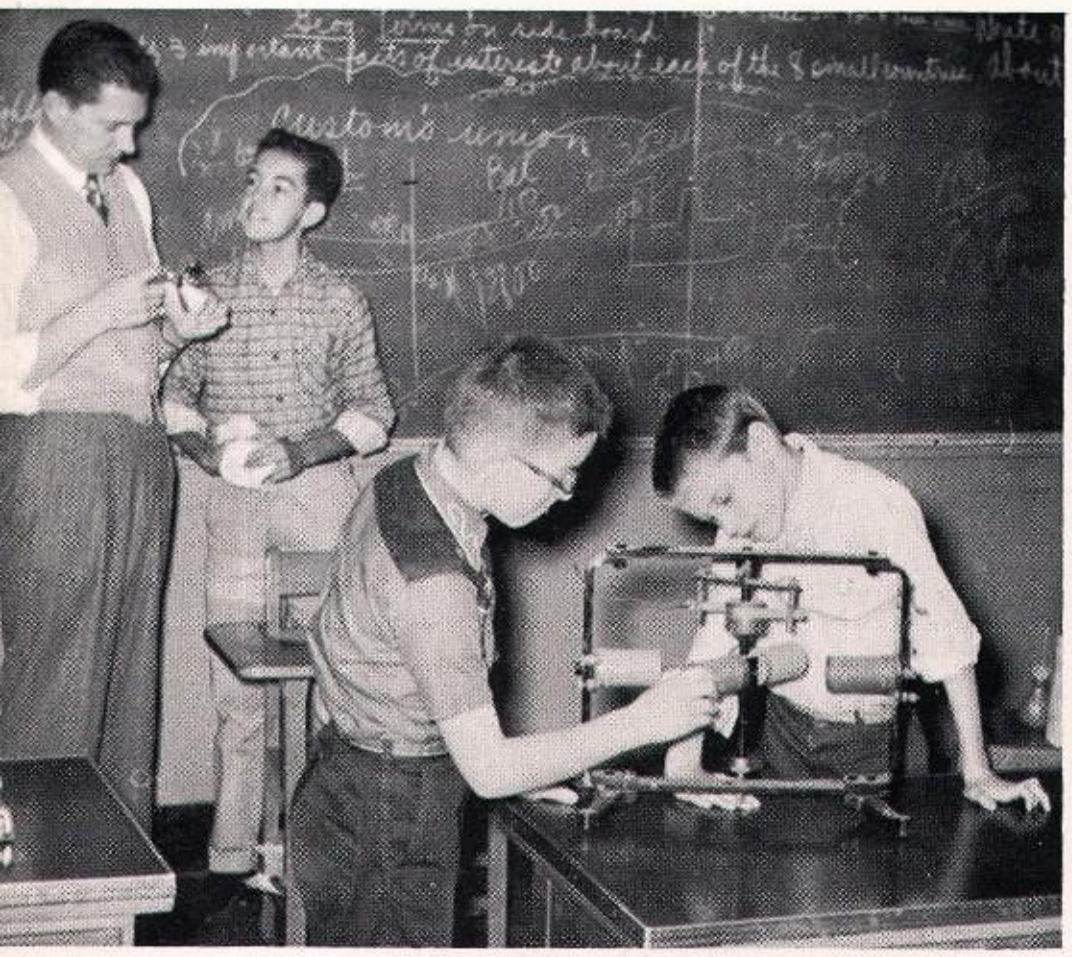
BIOLOGY CLUB—Front: Ray Kornbau, Sheridan Lewis, Harry Lohss, Henry Herrman, Dean Kinard, Dennis Fitzkee, James Kreeger, Robert Shaull, Ronald Arnold. Second: Patricia Geesey, Cecelia Buchanan, Mary Green, Rose Marie Grim, Shelby Haugh, Kathryn Saylor, Barbara Sheffer, Maxine Runkle, Dorcas Burke. Third: Timothy Shelley, Donald Seiple, Everett Shauck, Joel Kaltreider, Ned Knisely, William Morgan, Lawrence Riddle, Marc Tyson, James Runkle.

CLUBS FOR THOSE WITH LIKE INTERESTS . . .

Dissecting worms and frogs or tramping through woods to collect unusual plants are probably two things which come to mind when the BIOLOGY CLUB is mentioned. But these young people meet not only to become amateur animal surgeons or adept hikers, but rather because they have a common interest, to learn the whys and wherefores of living things and to see how this form of science may actually be applied to real life. Highlighting each year is the eagerly awaited trip to the Pennsylvania State Farm Show arranged by their advisor, Mr. Shoemaker. Their plans also include visits to the Washington Zoo and the Smithsonian Institute, to Longwood Gardens, and to the Franklin Institute. With such a program, this club is a most enjoyable and worthwhile way for scientific-minded persons to rub elbows.



Joel Kaltreider takes his turn at giving a demonstration during the club's weekly meeting. Judging from the expressions on the faces of Robert Shaull and Mr. Shoemaker, he is holding the interest of his audience.



Just how interesting this science can be is apparent as Mr. Heyne, Harry Olp, Steven Stine, and David Rost work on various motors.

The SCIENCE CLUB, one of the few organizations planned especially for the junior high students, is proving most interesting to all its members. This club touches upon many topics which will be studied later in senior high by way of experiments and other methods of learning. Why dirty water settles, what lipstick is made of, and how heavy air is—these are just a few of the many questions that come up for discussion during the Thursday A. M. meetings. Some of these club members may earn distinction in physics or chemistry in their high school or college courses because of the interest started in their club projects. To date Red Lion High has no young specialists actively concerned with raising a satellite or missile. But this is science, the subject which throws light on all subjects . . . just give these teen-agers a few more years!

. . . BOOK LOVERS AND BOOK MENDERS . . .

Members of the LIBRARY CLUB have no trouble finding ways to spend their spare time. They assist Mrs. Shermeyer in keeping the library in good order, stamping books, and decorating bulletin boards. The annual inventory is a pretty big job, but for these willing folks it's all in the day's work.

Club members take over the desk duties during free periods. Phyllis Runkle and Marcia Seitz check books for Susan Watkins and Mary Ann Kohler.

Equipped with paste, patience, and know-how, Carol Barshinger, Donna Mundis, and Geraldine Rider take their turn at mending books.

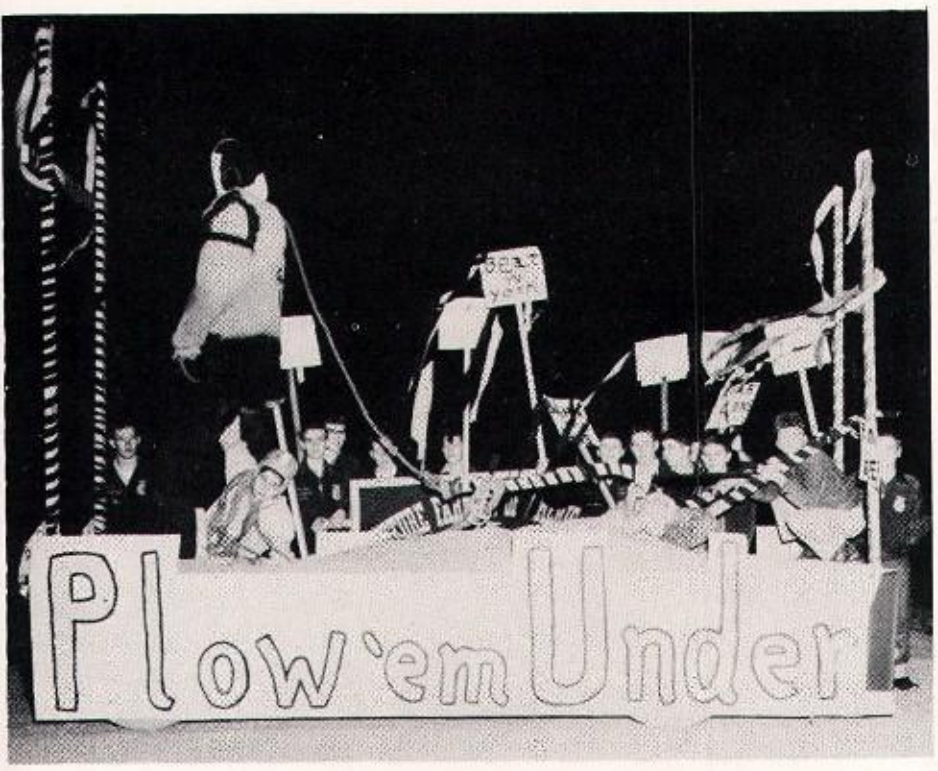
. . . FUTURE HOME ECONOMISTS . . .

For the FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA, the main interest lies, as the club name would suggest, in the home and its surroundings. These girls, aided in their work by Mrs. Laucks, carry out a wide variety of projects—sewing, knitting, embroidering, stenciling, and the like. At some time during the year the girls hope to visit Teena's and Hanna's, as well as one of the dairies in the area. It is on field trips such as these that young homemakers learn that special something which they can put to use in their own homes.

For the members of the F. H. A., one Thursday morning session brought a cooking demonstration by Mrs. Betty Weible and Mrs. Elsie Fag, representatives of Metropolitan Edison Company.



The F. F. A., with Mr. John Myers at the helm, carries out an extremely active program. Conventions and conferences, the farm show in Harrisburg, the York Fair . . . activities not limited to farming—indoor track meets with F.F.A. chapters, the county meet . . . all are on schedule.

Left: Tradition shattered! This attractive float is the first to be entered by an organization in the pep parade, formerly restricted to individual grades. Right: For a gang of future farmers even chicken-plucking can be fun, especially when there's a financial motive attached to the project.

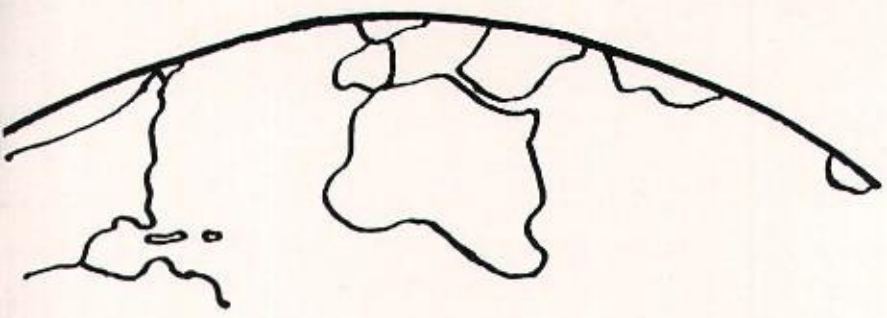
. . . ENTERTAINERS AND SPECTATORS . . .

Under the guidance of Mr. Baldwin and Mrs. Jackowick, the future actors and actresses of Red Lion learn the ropes of the profession. These members of the DRAMATIC CLUB have fun practicing lines and acting out short plays for their own enjoyment, and during the year, add much to the student assemblies and class plays.

The reading choir practices "The Night Before Christmas" under the leadership of Mr. Baldwin in preparation for the Christmas assembly.

Breakfast and a social chat for sleeping beauty, Carolyn Kohler, during a dramatic club play.

JUNIOR RED CROSS membership consists of one girl and one boy from each home room. These are elected at the beginning of each new school year by the home room members. Together with their sponsor, Miss Nonemaker, who is new at Red Lion this year, these ambitious folks work very hard throughout the year. They find great satisfaction in helping others through various projects, such as Christmas wall decorations, gift boxes, and a correspondence album about Red Lion, prepared for the most part during their weekly meetings.



Ned Grove, Linda Burns, Stanley Smeltzer, and Harry Welty add finishing touches to a pre-Christmas project—making favors to be placed on hospital trays.

. . . GUYS ON THE ALERT FOR TRICK SHOTS . . .

Sorting out prints for the yearbook are Dean Heffner, Levere Crawford, Mr. Shaffer, and Joe Byerly.

Two eager young photographers, Dale Alloway and Donald Dietz, are at work in the darkroom preparing pictures for enlarging.

The shutter snaps and the plate is on its way to the darkroom to be processed and developed by members of the PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB. These lads, to whom negatives, shutter speed, split images, and developers are common knowledge, put into pictures what many of us try to put into words in the learning of the 3 R's.

Interesting sounds may be heard and eye-catching movements observed in the gym any Thursday morning, for this is the time and place for the DANCING CLUB session. One day the girls may be practicing the basic steps of the waltz; another time it may be the polka, foxtrot, or samba; indeed, even ballet or tap dancing. Such a repertoire brings frequent requests for the girls to share their talents and bring a special flare to school programs. Approximately fifty girls belong in this group, selected on the basis of special routines made up by Mrs. Zarfos and Miss Mitchell. After working with them for awhile, Mrs. Zarfos rated their ability as very high in comparison with other groups with which she has worked. For the girls from ninth to twelfth grade whose talents lean in this direction, DANCING CLUB is a wonderful place for rubbing elbows with classmates, or would "tramping toes" be a better way to phrase it?

Exercise and fun for the members of the Dancing Club during club periods. This Thursday it's the "stroll."

. . . THE AGILE ONES WITH ROUTINES . . .

New at Red Lion this year is the FUTURE NURSES CLUB, made up of junior and senior girls interested in nursing as a career. As part of their program, nurses from nearby hospitals are invited to meetings to discuss the fields in which specialized training is given. All in all, it's a pleasant way to gain valuable information for the years ahead.

ON THE PURELY SOCIAL SIDE . . .

With prospects of a big crowd for the junior high Christmas dance, the eighth grade decorating committee turns enthusiastically to tinsel and crepe paper.

Ed Sterner, Donna Hivner, Carol Krewson, Rodney Jamison, and Donna Thompson desert the dance floor temporarily. The place, the Country Club; the occasion, the Booster Club's dance.

This year's swing-and-sway agenda brought variety to the social life of Red Lion High . . . a dance sponsored by the Booster Club . . . the Varsity Bop, our really hep football dance . . . at Christmas, a junior high dance and home room parties . . . marking of Dan Cupid's appearance by the Valentine dances . . . a council dance in March, with a gay, informal atmosphere. These were only a few of the enjoyable activities of the year which caused new friendships to be made and old ones to be strengthened.

Left: It's Christmas time and Harry Edie, Darrell Gipe, and Jean Conn seem especially happy as Santa Claus pays his annual visit to 301. Right: Ted Miller, Skip Dellinger, Gil Smith, Barry Smeltzer, and their hosts—Mr. Moore and Mr. Rexroth—enjoy the Boosters' buffet dinner.

These senior high folks are having a very enjoyable evening at the junior-sponsored dance, "Hearts and Darts."

Joy Pickel and Bob Neely, Queen and King of Hearts, pose for the photographers following their coronation.

. . . PARTIES AND DANCES TOPPED BY

The Princess and Prince of Hearts, Judy Walker and Jan Hall, elected by the junior high students, receive their crowns from last year's honored couple, Louise Workinger and Dale Uhler.

Barry Smeltzer and Betty Bosley take full advantage of the rock-and-roll portion of the February dance.

The first step of the prom is passing through the receiving line. Janice Leiphart and Joe Byerly are welcomed by Mr. Tschop and Mr. and Mrs. Kulp.

With a background of ocean waves, shifting sands, and lilting strains of music, the prom brought the social events to a grand finale. Memories of this evening will always be filled with visions of filmy lace and satin . . . gliding along in the arms of that favorite date . . . the quick change of clothes for the all-night party at the Country Club . . . playing cards, watching movies, square dancing, bowling, and ping-pong . . . these for the treasure chest of happy moments.

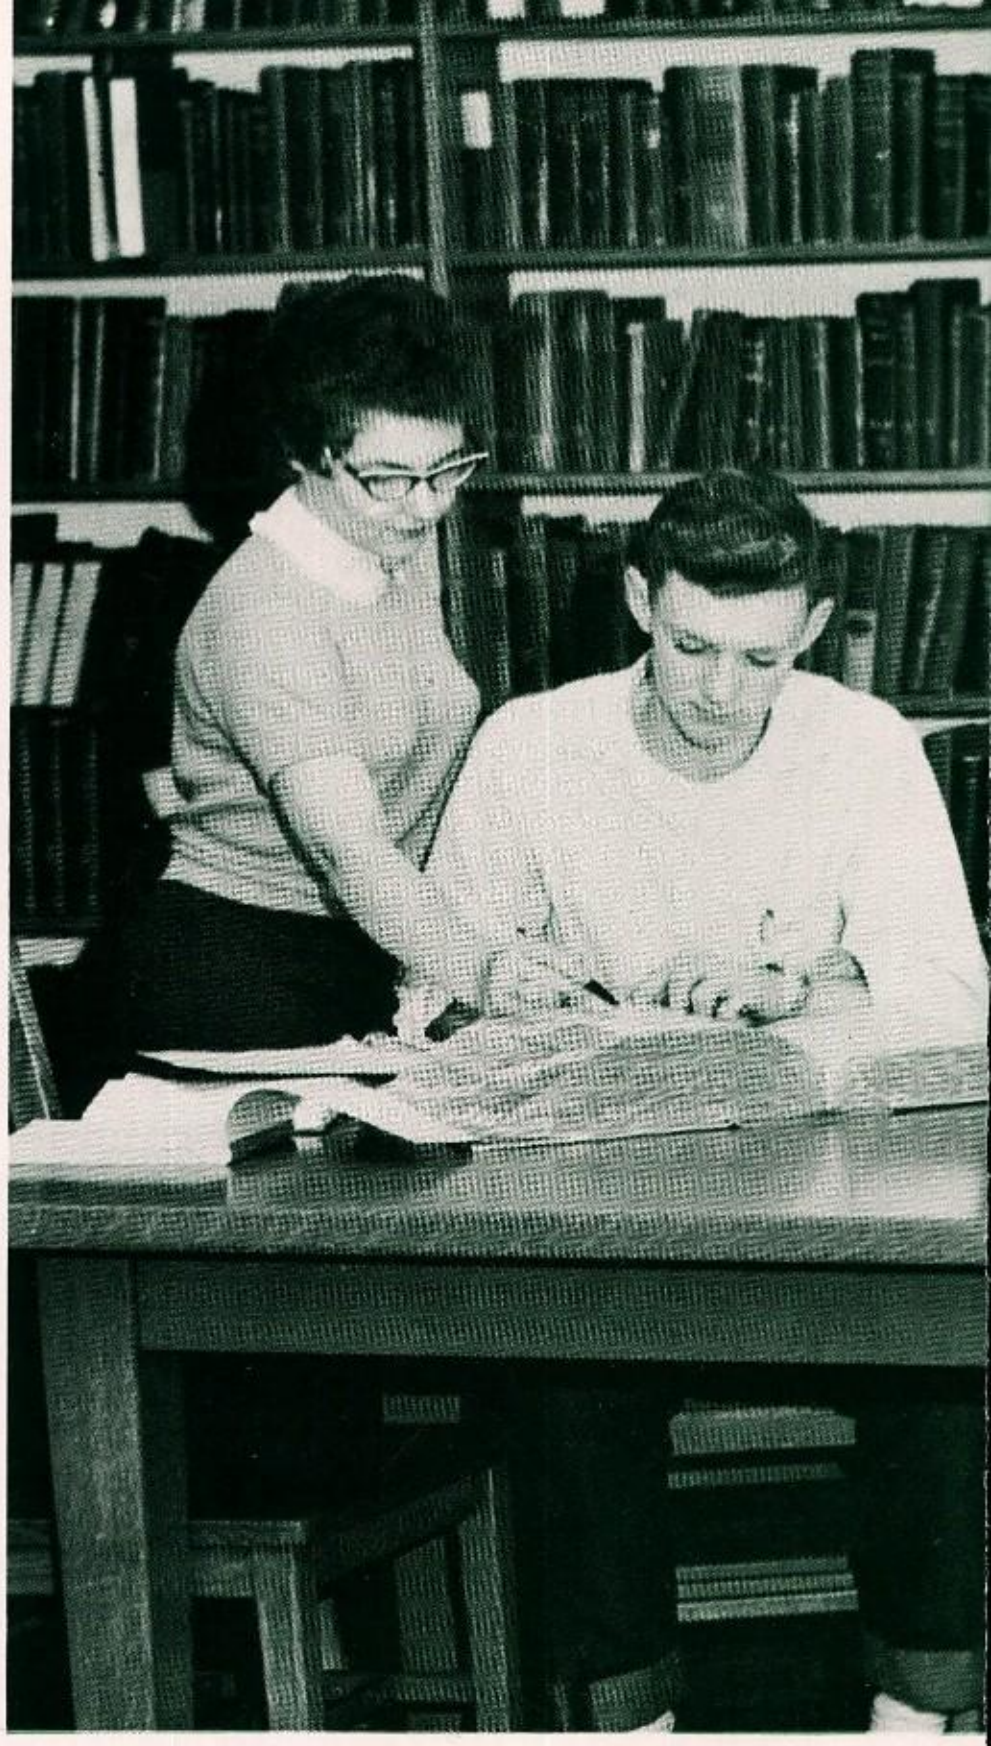
More dancing . . . following the prom, the all-night party at the Country Club . . . a first in Red Lion High's social history.

THE NEVER-TO-BE-FORGOTTEN PROM

The treasure chest has a special appeal for Donald Henshaw, Beryl Russell, Betty Bosley, Jim Uffleman, Sylvia Kinard, and Armand Conaway.

Mid-evening, and in the sand-and-sea atmosphere everyone seems to be having a wonderful time.

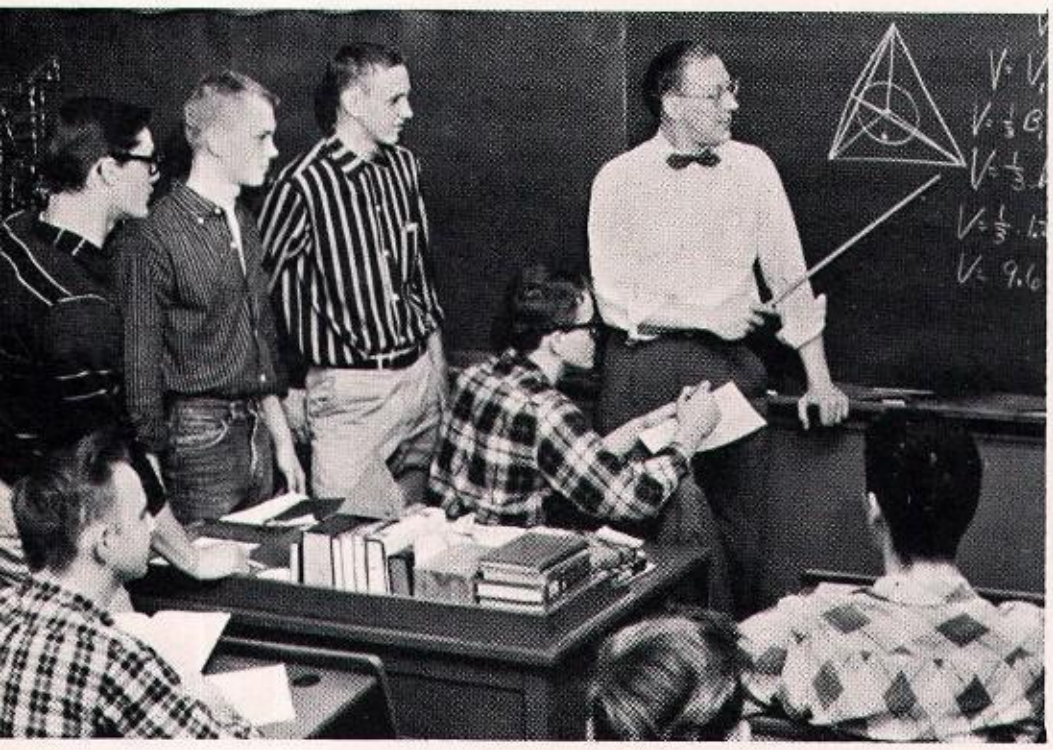
RACKING BRAINS



And now to our second R . . . the department of hard work. Although we are sometimes reluctant to admit it, the chief purpose in going to school is to get an education. Most of this comes from the books we study but some of it is concerned with activities . . . Hilltop journalists meeting deadlines, Lion writers chasing an elusive idea, or Student Council debating a new project.

In the entertainment field, assembly committees rack their brains to put that certain something into our Friday morning programs, and the stage crew to get the proper background. For those who pursue this second R with sufficient enthusiasm, the immediate reward is recognition by honor societies, but the long-range and more valuable reward is a successful career in the future.

HOURS OF TOIL IN CLASS AND STUDY . . .



"The volume of a tetrahedron equals . . ." Mr. Tschop drives home a principle of solid geometry to Lonnie Barnhart, Gary Fillmore, Russell Urey, and Ken Shumaker.

The most important part of school life takes place, of course, in the classroom. It is always fun sharing opinions in history class, or composing "great works" in English. Some students prefer solving a complicated math problem or even translating a Latin paragraph. Brain-racking? Certainly, but classroom work isn't so bad, as the shots on the pages clearly show. The fascinating moments spent watching an experiment develop in science class or probing the mysterious parts of a skeleton in health . . . the tapping from the typing room which seems to keep time with the lively beat coming from the music classes . . . the creative instinct being pampered and prodded in art and shop . . . these mean school.

Instrumental class . . . Mr. Ward seems very determined to get perfect tones from Larry Smith, Ted Gemmill, and Charles Daugherty.

Both speed and precision are required for a good typist, and these students know that only practice and more practice will bring the desired results.

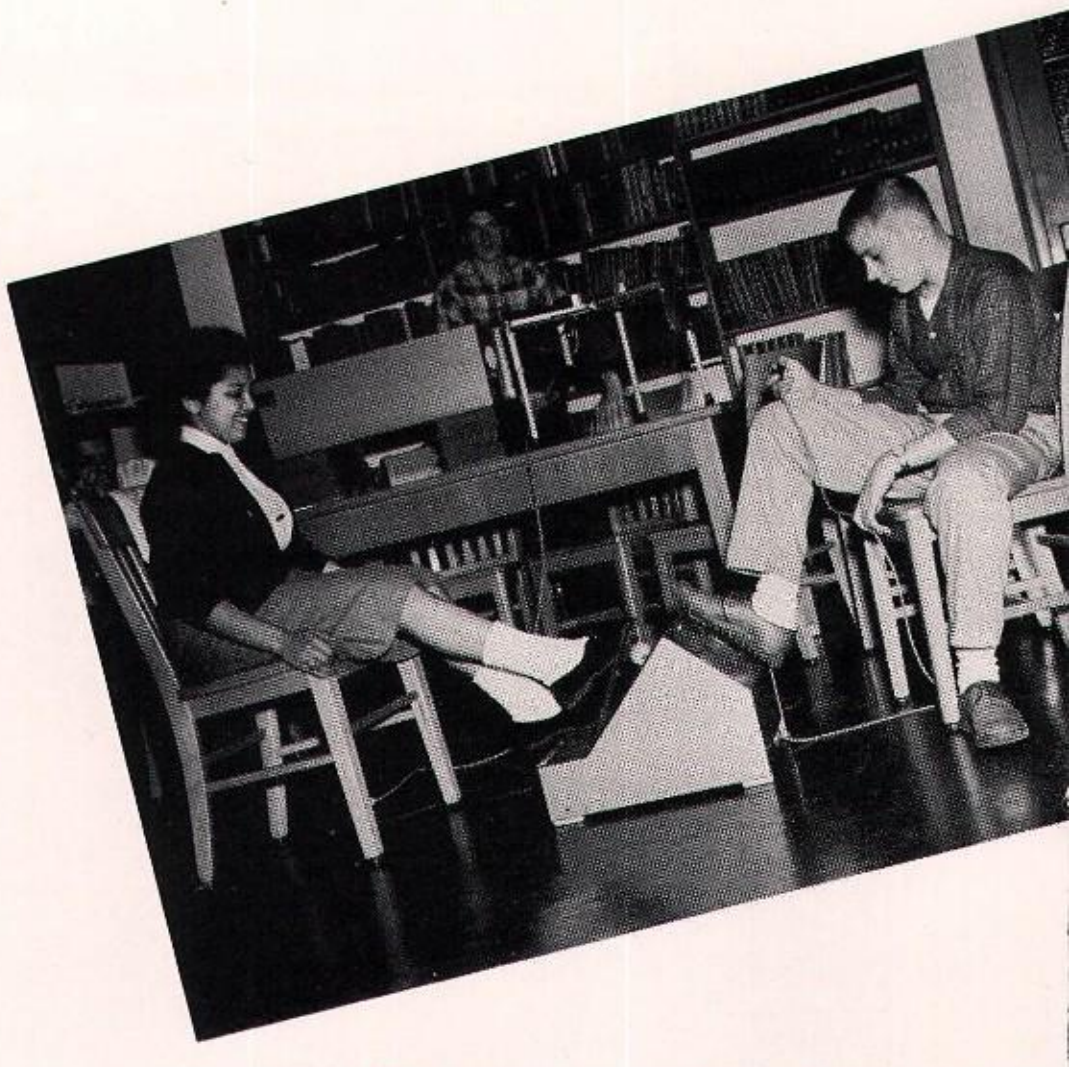
What an interesting way to present an English discussion! Members of this eighth grade panel of news correspondents give their opinions on world events.

With Mrs. Laucks supervising the job, Mary Amspacher, Carolyn Strickler, Lois Newcomer, Doris Nace, and Patty Andrews brighten the furniture in the women's faculty room with slipcovers made in home ec class.

. . . MOMENTS OF FUN AND EXCITEMENT . . .

These freshman work off excess energy and improve their technique in basketball during one of Miss Mitchell's gym classes.

Book report day is here again, and Marilyn Fisher takes the floor in Mr. Nyer's 10B English class.

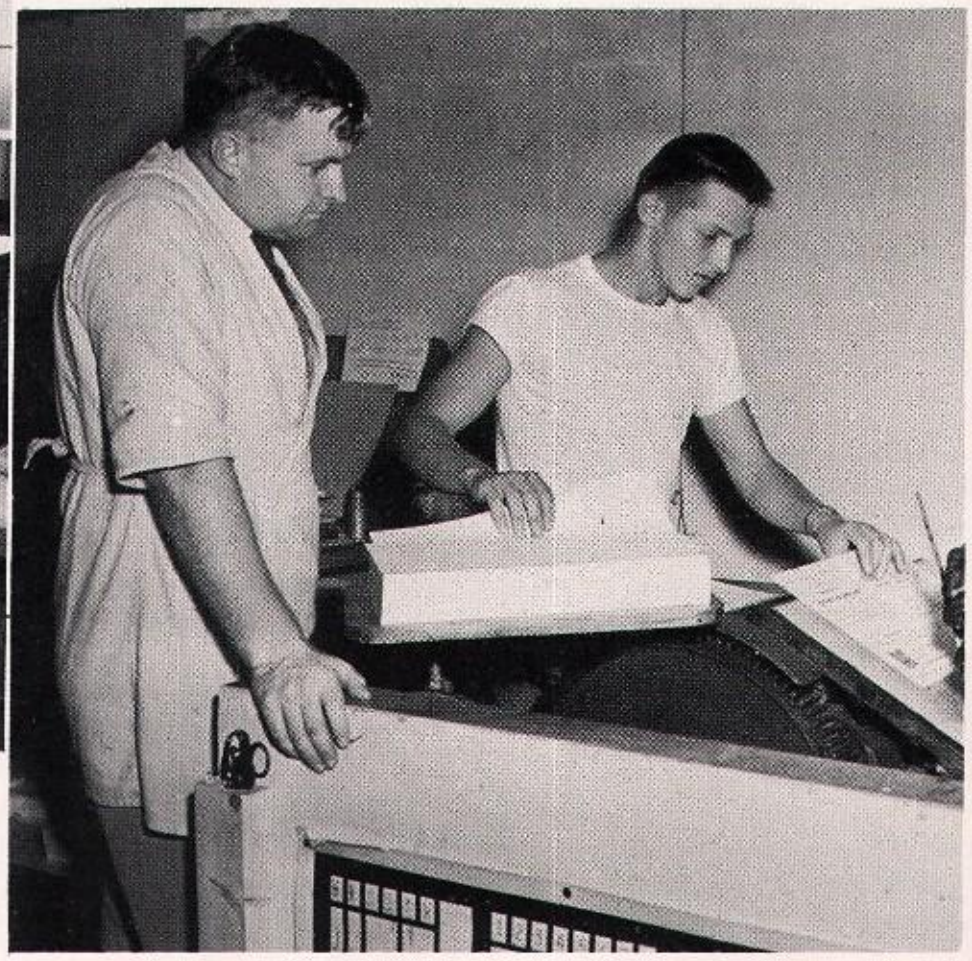


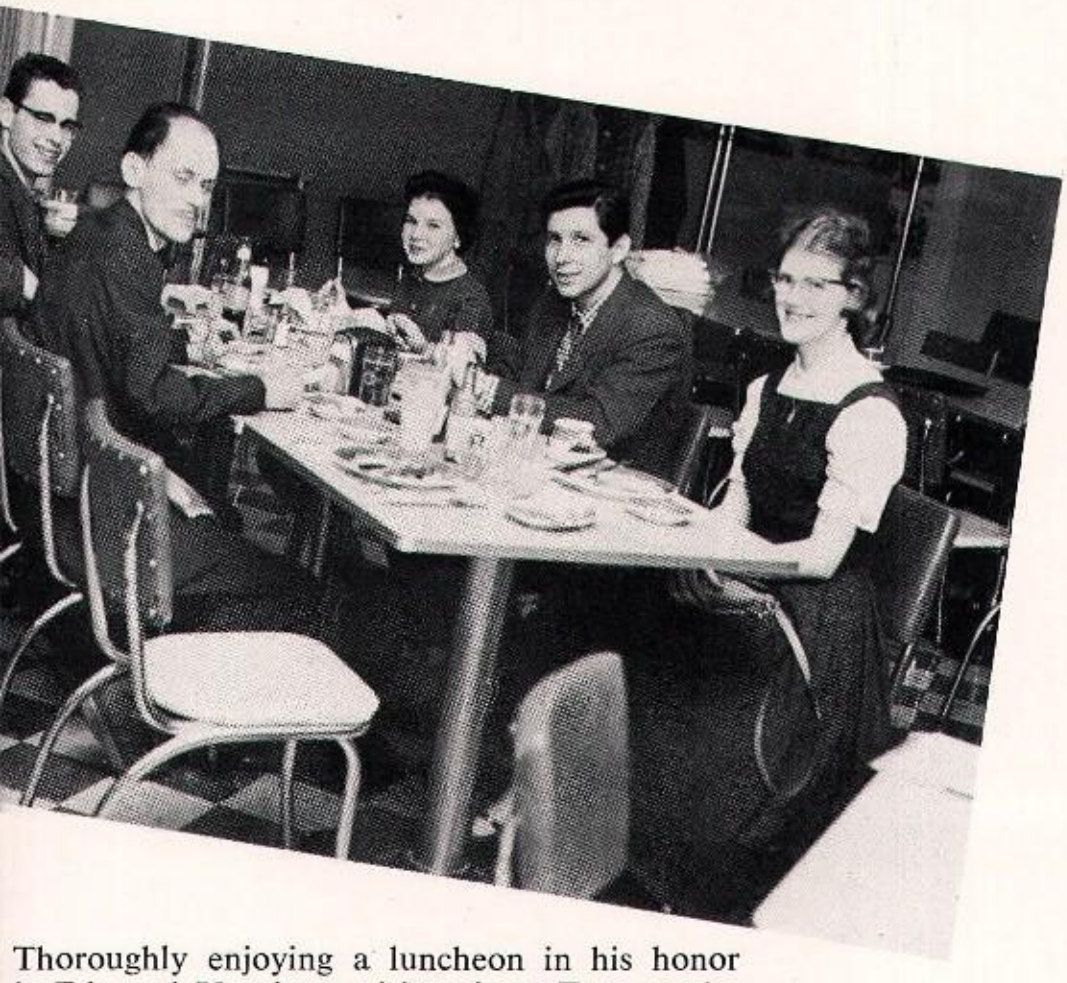
Safe drivers? The results of this reaction time test will tell the tale, as Henry Herrman flashes the red lights and Cecelia Buchanan steps on the brake.

. . . A VARIETY OF INTERESTS FOUND

Add a line here, darken the background, lighten this figure—just a few of the suggestions Mrs. Swartz makes to members of her advanced art classes.

Football programs . . . Mr. Yorks and Allen Sechrist know well the time needed in activity periods, during classes, and after school to print, fold, and staple these important items.





Thoroughly enjoying a luncheon in his honor is Edmond Venzin, a visitor from France who spoke to the French classes in his native tongue. With him are Richard Smith, Mr. Francis Miller, Claudette Caron, and Phyllis Ensminger.

Picturing Latin scenes and characters in a colorful way is the aim of Sue Smith, Carolyn Lutz, Nancy Grove, Gwen Grove, and Jill Grove, as they arrange the Latin section of the display case for Book Week.

IN THE COURSES OF STUDY . . .

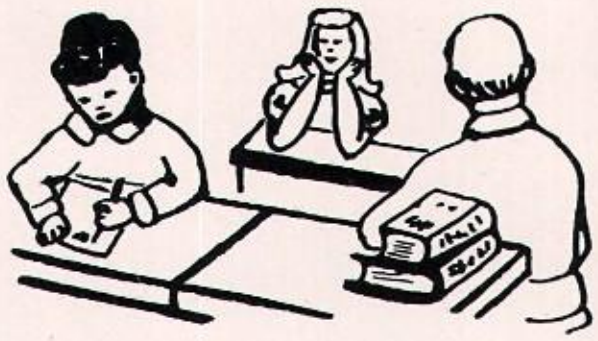
Engrossed in their sewing project—stuffed animals for young friends—are Brenda Nace, Judy Snyder, Lana Strickler, Dana Grove, with their instructor, Mrs. Uhler.

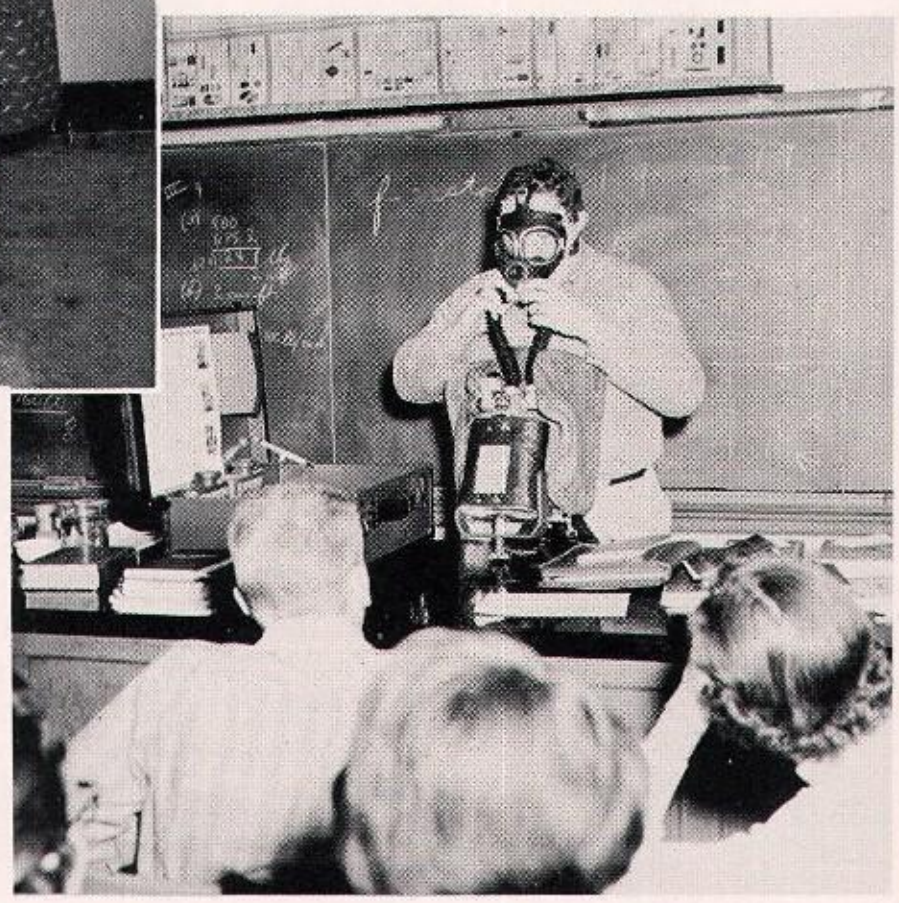
Election Day . . . interested seniors observe as Mr. Frits explains the procedure of using a voting machine.

Eighth graders in one of Mr. Landis' mechanical drawing classes work industriously on their latest assignment.

. . . PRELUDE TO A SUCCESSFUL VOCATION

Lynda Grove, Delores Goodyear, Carolyn Frits, Carol Miller, and Lana Grim enact a scene from their play, "Ransom of Red Chief," adapted from the story of the same name in their literature books.





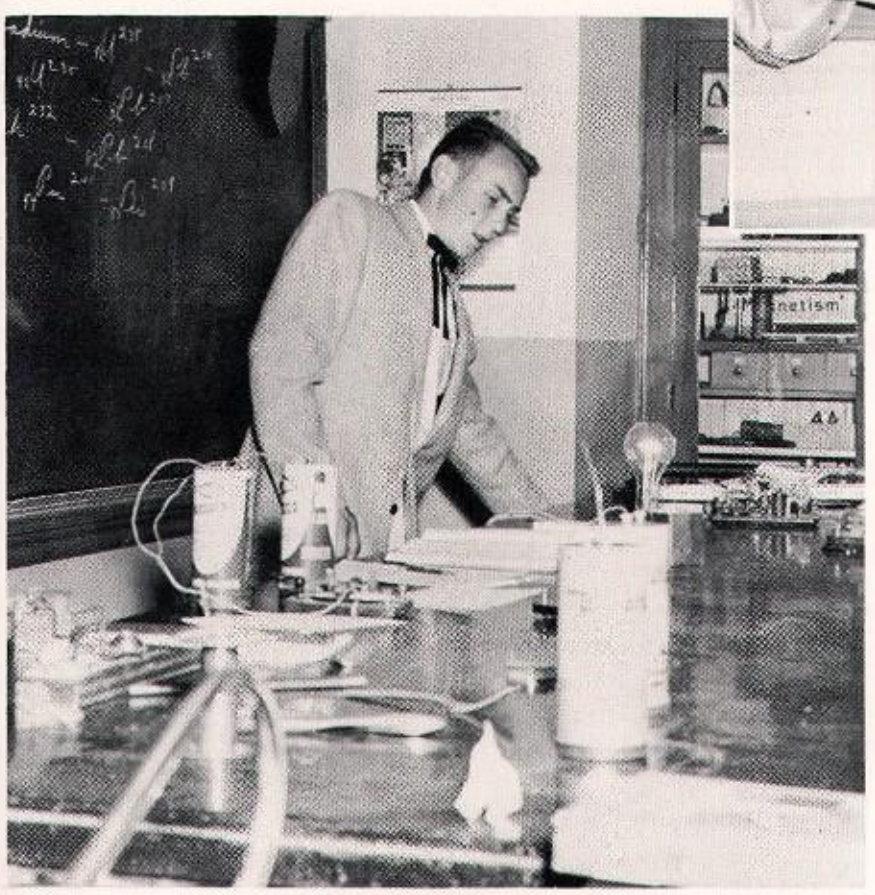
This strange looking outfit save lives? Well, Bob Beaverson's demonstration to the 12A chemistry class showed that this breathing apparatus worn by fireman can do just that.

Everything seems to be under control in this study hall, as Kenneth Shumaker and Faye Brown, teachers of the day, check current happenings in the paper.

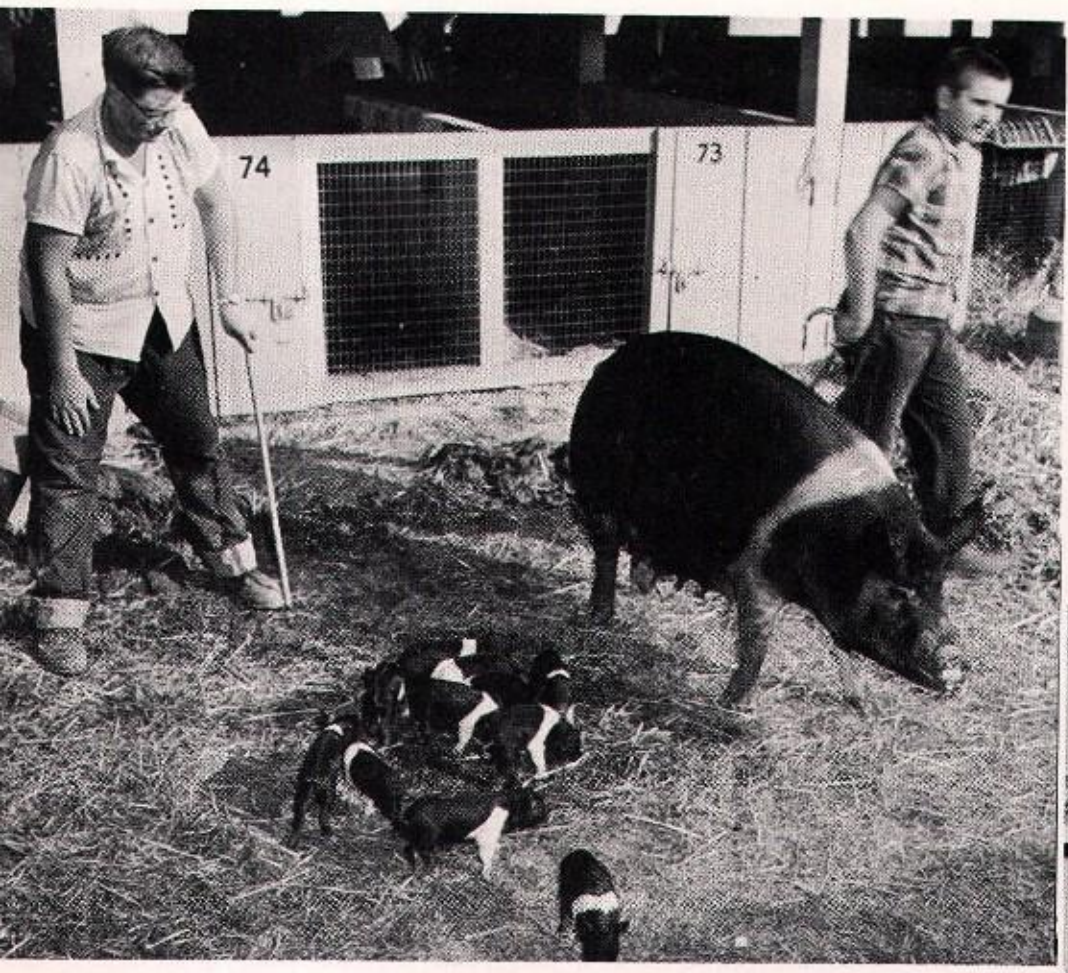
INNOVATION—STUDENTS IN CHARGE

Beryl Russell and Nancy Henry get some pointers on mimeographing from Norma Herbst. Beryl and Nancy, members of the class of '57, are now working in our school office.

Robert Graybill appears to know all about electricity as he demonstrates Ohm's Law in the 11A physics class on Student Day.



Something new from Student Council—STUDENT DAY. With the students taking over, the teachers stepped aside to see if the pupils were as anxious to make this day a real success as they had said they would. Even the principal and supervising principal stepped down to let two qualified boys take their usual place in the office. Science, mathematics, gym, and even music classes, proceeded livelier than ever as the pupils turned in excellent examples of their abilities. All in all, it was quite an occasion, and the students are looking forward to a repeat in 1958.



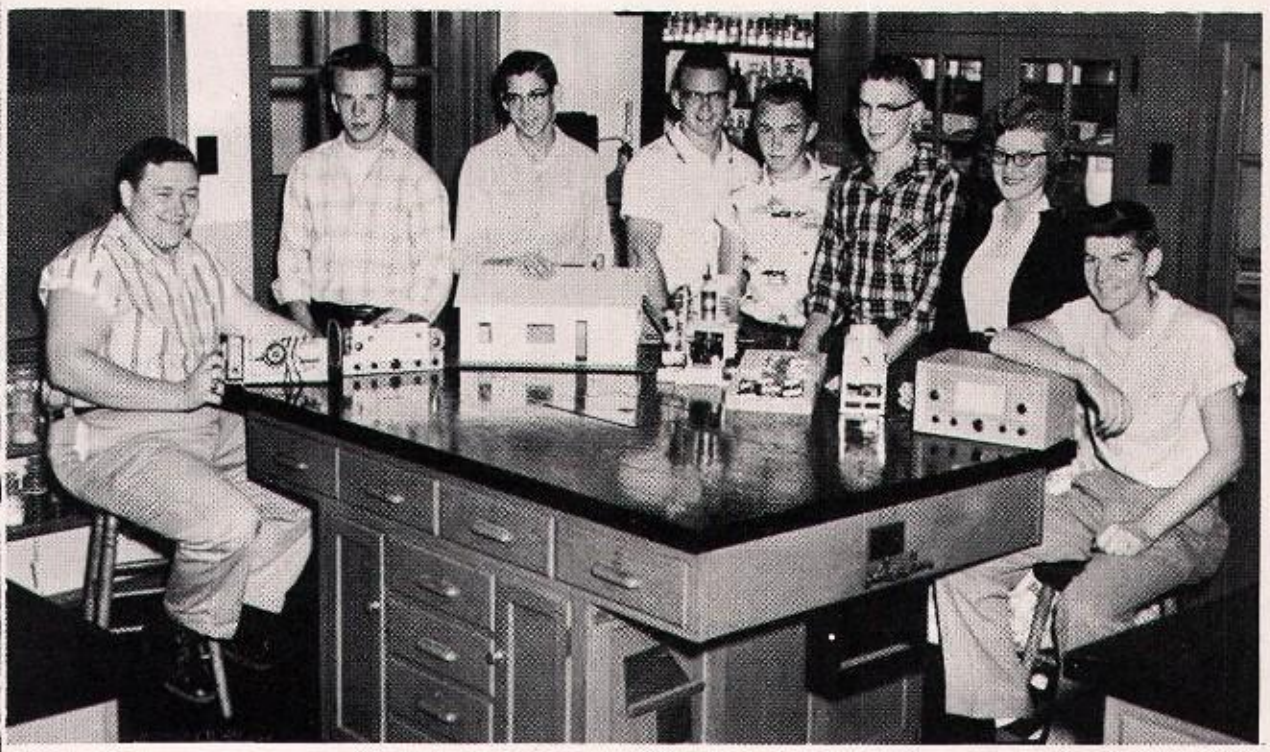
Dennis Bankert, with the help of his friend, Barry Flinchbaugh, cares for his York Fair entry. The most interesting fact—the piglets were actually born there during the fair!

Occasionally throughout the year, there is opportunity for other students, parents, and the interested public in general to glimpse the ability of students in various fields. Early in the fall, the York Fair; somewhat later, essay contests; in the spring, the schedule calls for an art exhibit, a parents night for the F. F. A., just to mention a few. Needless to say, these are proud moments for the exhibitors.

Proud possessor of a blue ribbon, Henry Smith displays the collection of vegetables which he raised.

PROJECTS, TALENTS, AND PRODUCTS

Left: While viewing the Art Exhibit last April 26, Armand Conaway points out his favorite to his friends. On display were art projects of both the elementary school and the high school. Right: Exhibiting their physics projects, these students—Bob Beaverson, Bob Neely, Larry Saylor, Lanny Peters, Bob Graybill, Palmer Burke, Nancy Coeyman, Donald Gingrich—are also thinking of the extra credit they will receive.



Parents view their sons' projects on display at the F. F. A.'s annual Parents Night and get better acquainted with the work of these future farmers.

ON DISPLAY FOR THE PUBLIC

Mr. Palmer Grim and Mr. Charles Flaharty, representing the Junior Chamber of Commerce, congratulate Stephany Smith, winner in the Voice of Democracy Contest. Others placing are Nina Beth Landis, Jill Grove, Carolyn Frits, Carolyn Lutz, and JoAn Finn.

Mrs. George Alwood presents Janeen Taylor with the American Legion Award for the most outstanding eighth grade girl.

RACKING THEIR BRAINS TO PLAN

That ever-with-us problem of completing pages . . . Miss Clevenger, darkroom chief Robert Neely, and make-up boss John Shaeffer are on the receiving end of Mr. Shaffer's tips on good (and otherwise) enlargements.

With skirts and trousers above the knees and an old-fashioned school marm at the helm, the members of the LION staff portray a typical classroom scene from the days of readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic to advertise their class yearbook.

AND PUBLISH THE ANNUAL

Quite as its name implies, the activity office of R.L.A.H.S. has been a room full of humming activities during this past year, for it is the hang-out and official headquarters of the LION staff. On the shoulders of this busy group lay the responsibility of turning out a yearbook of which the class of '58 could be proud. With pencils flying, typewriters clicking, flashbulbs flashing, paper cutters screeching, and a few shoves from the advisors, they aimed for those too-soon deadlines. Proofs . . . more proofs . . . and suddenly, worries forgotten, it's time to open the '58 LION.

Ronald Smeltzer "swabs the deck" as he and his co-workers —Dean Heffner, Rodney Jamison, and Robert Neely—ready the darkroom for a busy season.

Sonia Smith, Helen Weir, and Rae Schmuck of the business staff struggle to keep their sales records straight, with the make-up staff hard at work in the background.

WORKING OVERTIME TO GATHER

Red Lion High's newspaper, the HILLTOP, certainly isn't distributed by newsboys standing on the corners, but its arrival each month is eagerly anticipated, just the same. Interviews with interesting visitors . . . a new printer in Columbia, who came into the picture this year . . . the press conference at Y.J.C. . . . the friendly associations with the junior apprentices learning the whys and wherefores of putting together a school newspaper . . . the wear and tear of collecting news items and writing editorials . . . all are a part of publishing the HILLTOP.

STUDENT REPRESENTATIVES

One of the twin Christmas trees which brightened the cafeteria during the holiday season receives its trimmings from experts Dave Smith, Bill Grove, and Russ Urey.

Back of almost every school activity one finds the STUDENT COUNCIL acting individually or collectively. When school opens in the fall, the student body is welcomed by the council president. Within days, home rooms have chosen their representatives, and every Thursday from then on the students' views, pro and con, may be aired in meeting. Perhaps a party is in the offing and the date must be approved; or the annual West York game necessitates plans for the football rally. Socially minded sports fans want dancing after a basketball game . . . the seating arrangement on the bleachers needs attention . . . Christmas decorations, to have or not to have . . . the council-sponsored party in the spring . . . the election of the three officers by student vote . . . the list of problems is endless. To keep the school up-to-date on council action, the secretary reads the minutes every Friday noon by way of the public address system. A big job, this being a member of the STUDENT COUNCIL, sometimes thankless, but in many ways rewarding.

The success of the council-sponsored clothing drive is evident . . . Dick Hangen, Bill Grove, and Weldon Ropp are part of the crew handling the big job of packing.

Ray Kornbau casts his ballot for the Student Council officers at election polls supervised by Ann Paulhamus and Kathryn Rittenhouse.

FOR ASSEMBLIES, PROGRAMS WITH

The Three Wise Men are portrayed in song and story by William Linnemans, Gordon Spurley, and Rodney Sechrist in the Christmas assembly.

Of the assemblies presented in the auditorium many are conducted by the students themselves. Departments, clubs, music organizations, and even classes sponsor programs. Awards assemblies, in which letters are given for participation in varsity sports, bands, and choruses . . . programs to advertise class plays . . . publicity for the Lion and Hilltop . . . observance of special days . . . programs purely for pleasure . . . these are all presented by students. And last, but not least, every senior gets a chance to participate in a school assembly when the time for Class Day arrives, the biggest student assembly of them all.

"White Christmas" is presented in a new light by these nimble dancers, LaDawn Fix, Joyce Brenneman, and Joyce Burg.

LET'S-BE-ORIGINAL SCRIPTS

The old and the new methods of doing the laundry are enacted by JoAnn Taylor, Brenda Stokes, Susan Conn, and Patsy Deller during the home ec program.

These Dramatic Club members sing as well as act . . . Dale Smith, Barry Smeltzer, Bill Freeman, Dwight Grove, Armand Conaway, and Gil Smith.

There is little evidence of stage fright as Barry Stell, Ruthann Young, Brenda Grim, Nancy Coeyman, Armand Conaway, John McKinley, and Lonny Seitz present their skit to the assembly.

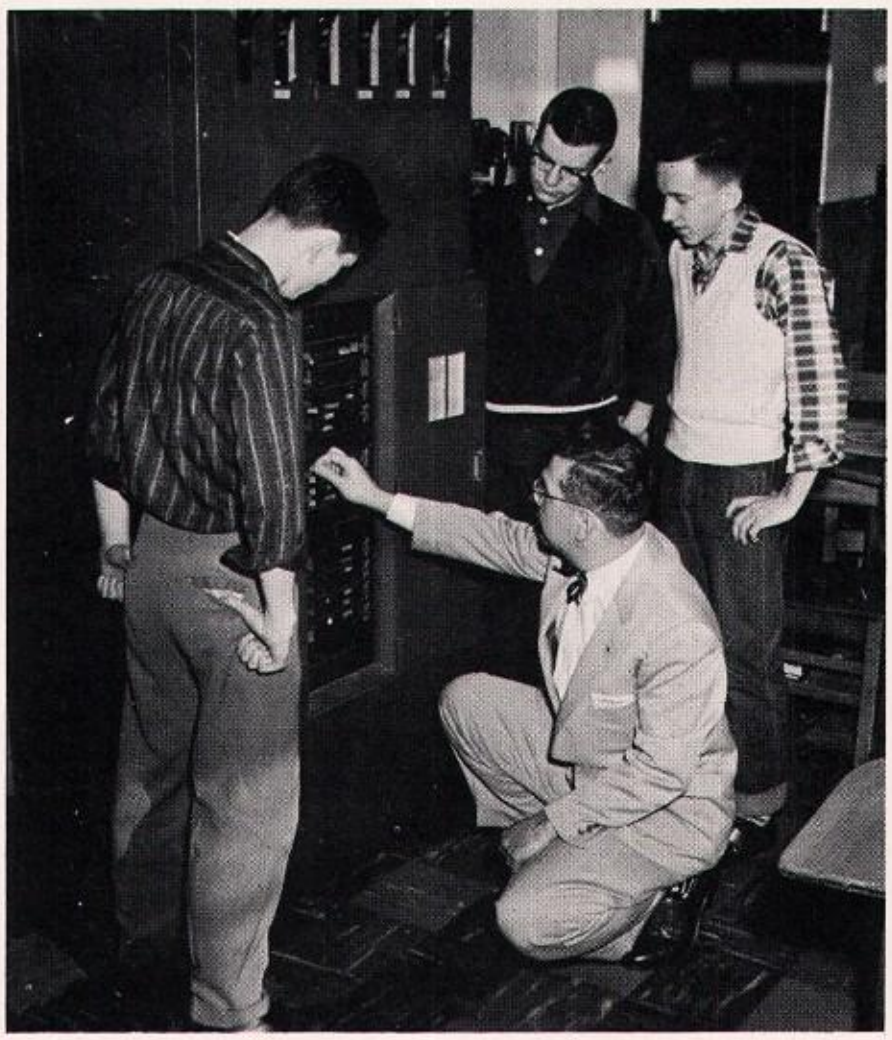
Unnoticed by many students, the members of the STAGE CREW play important roles in making a success of class plays, assemblies, and special programs. To them falls the job of setting up the stage, even to the extent of building and painting, and changing the scenery. In addition, they are responsible for pulling the curtains, working the lights, and creating various sound effects. As director of the crew, Mr. Landis has the opportunity to apply many of the principles taught in his shop classes. During the weekly meetings plans are made and work is done on future or current productions. When everything is in place Mr. Landis and his understudies breathe a sigh of relief and get set for any emergency calls. After the final curtain is pulled, they rejoice with the cast over a successful production . . . then they tackle the job of dismantling.



Mr. Landis explains the complex methods involved in working the stage lights to stagehands William Fauth, William Linnemans, and Malcolm Herrick.

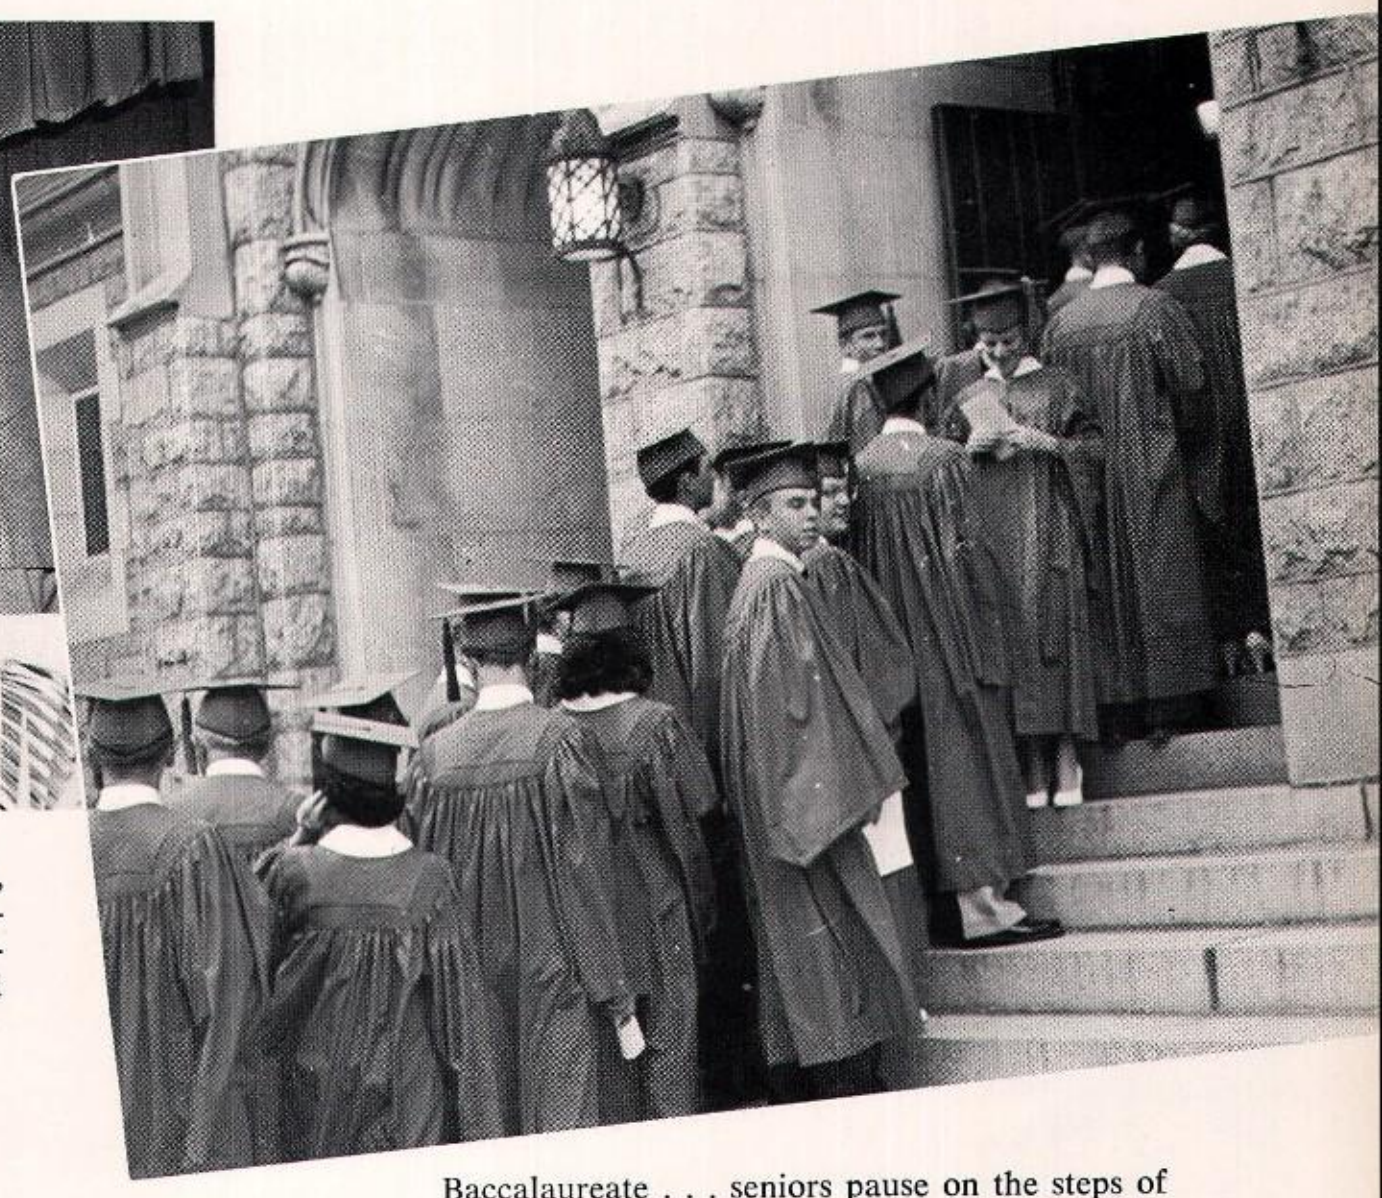
. . . MEMBERSHIP IN HONOR GROUPS . . .

Honor society! . . . the magic words which every year greet some of the students at Red Lion, students who have achieved a large measure of success scholastically. The LATIN HONOR SOCIETY confers membership on sophomores who have maintained sufficiently high grades in this subject and have evidenced language aptitude. Juniors and seniors consider it a great privilege to be elected to the NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY, and they have good reason to be proud, because the requirements include not only scholarship, but also leadership in and out of school, service, and general good character.

Barbara Lauer adds her name to the N. H. S. membership scroll while Mr. Kulp supervises the activities.

The big moment has arrived for Jim Hartwell, Jay Keener, and Nancy Klinefelter as they receive their diplomas from Dr. Woodrow Dellinger, president of the Red Lion Area Board of Education.



Baccalaureate . . . seniors pause on the steps of St. Paul's E. U. B. church waiting for the signal to march.

. . . THE LONG-AWAITED DIPLOMA

Not everyone is able to make honor societies, but for all who complete successfully the prescribed years of racking brains, there is a reward—the thrill of COMMENCEMENT season, the caps and gowns, and the diplomas. For the one hundred and sixty-one graduates in June '57, there was the lining up in front of the church . . . the sermon, directed mainly to the front pews . . . the procession at the close of the service. On Tuesday they again took their place in line, the march this time to the stage of the auditorium. Speeches by fellow classmen and guest speaker . . . the alma mater . . . and another class joined the ranks of alumni.

Dr. Frederic K. Miller, president of Lebanon Valley College, gives the class of '57 good advice for the future in his commencement address.

RARING TO GO

Cheerleaders encouraging their team to victory, the band playing lively music, chorus members singing for all they're worth, our sports-minded boys racking up points for the team . . . these are some of the people who are really raring to go around Red Lion High. Foremost in our minds are our varsity teams who are responsible for making a name for our school in the field of sports. Besides the varsity, there are junior varsity and junior high programs . . . for the girls, the G.A.A., track, and Tumbling Club . . . at noontime, games for anyone who wishes to participate, whether he is skilled or not. Sports, yes, but they are not alone in requiring plenty of vim and vitality.

In the less athletic activities, including plays, choruses, and bands, we find that as much talent and energy are required in these as on the gridiron or basketball court. Town functions, as well as school programs, enlist their help. For outstanding performers in any of these fields, sometimes awards are a climax for superior achievement, with the goal of athletes being membership in the Varsity Club or National Athletic Scholarship Society. For all who participate, whether to a large or small degree, there is the personal reward in character that comes from enthusiasm and teamwork.

INTRAMURALS—NOON ACTIVITIES . . .

What to do after lunch? This problem is taken care of quite thoroughly by noontime intramurals. From twelve to one the gym, or the across-the-street campus when weather permits, is the scene of a variety of activities planned and supervised by Mr. Fitzkee and a student committee. The program ranges from occasional dancing to the usual athletic events in which competition is always keen and spirited. Whether the action involves the team sports of football, basketball, volleyball, and softball, or individual competition in wrestling, tennis, and rope climbing, there is always a crowd on hand to cheer for victory. And for the efforts of intramural participants, handsome individual and home room plaques are awarded to the winners.

Who keeps that team spirit flying high? Who leads the fans in loud, rousing cheers for those Lions? Naturally, the CHEERLEADERS — all three squads, backed by a healthy club of reserves — and it's a long and hard look to find a group of girls with more personality and pep than these. Through rain and shine, through victory and defeat, these gals are right out front with their synchronized movements on up to the last joyful leap into the air. Using routines which they made up with the help of their advisor, Miss Mitchell, they came in a close second in competition with cheerleaders from nearby schools. To their fellow students they're really great, so three cheers for the cheerleaders of Red Lion High!

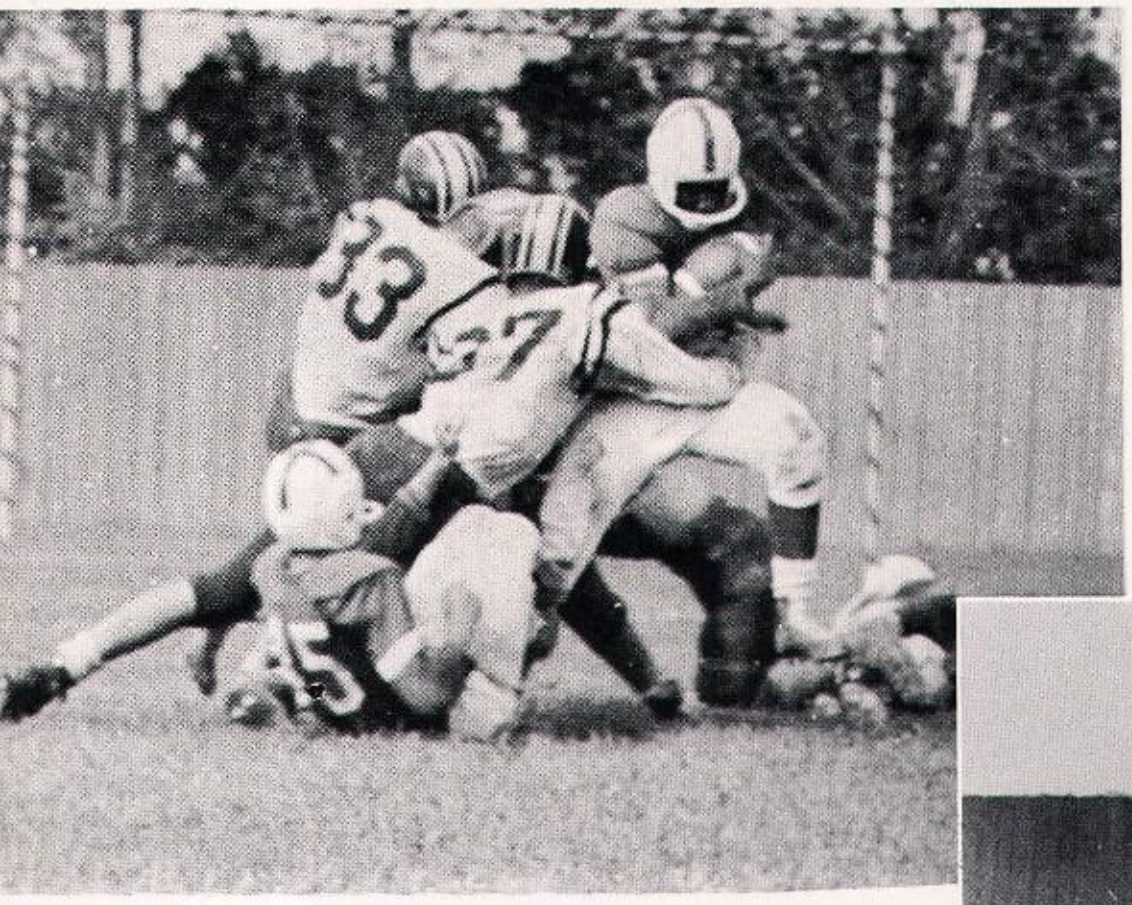
HEROES ON THE GRIDIRON . . .

A perfect example of "gang tackling" in this play as Tom Melhorn and Ken Shumaker give a Susquehanna Township back a going over.



With two alumni greats as head coach and assistant coach for the varsity, the spirit was there and the Lions of '58 were raring to go. In late August some eighty boys trotted out to the FOOTBALL field to prepare for the rough road of the Conference of Roses ahead. Three scrimmages were held before the season opened and all were successful. Only one serious injury was sustained but that kept a letterman in the hospital for a few days. The Lions were set to go when September 14 and Warwick Union rolled around. With a victory in the opener, the Lions met their next victim, Susquehanna Township. Following a disappointing game at Littlestown were three straight victories, Dallastown, Solanco, and Ephrata. After winning the last two the '58 Lions led the conference. But then misfortune struck in the form of their old menace, Columbia. After this loss and another disappointing defeat at the hands of Elizabethtown, the Lions' hopes for the conference championship were lost. In the West York game, however, they came back to beat their oldest rival and win the Principals' Trophy. There the regular season ended, but Palmyra, postponed earlier in the season, had to be played to determine conference standings. The final score was 7–0 and another loss, but the over-all record was considered good. Even the younger squads liked victory and neither the junior varsity nor junior high lost a game. This would indicate some more good FOOTBALL for Red Lion in the next couple years.

Cleon Spence, Red Lion's high scorer for the season, breaks out of the grasp of a Dallastown tackler for a sizeable gain.

COMPETITION FOR GIRLS . . .

When the school opens in the fall, many sophomore, junior, and senior girls are already looking forward to the softball, basketball, and volleyball games which make up the program of the GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION. These games are always full of excitement and in all, good sportsmanship is a major aim. The annual football dance sponsored by the G. A. A. is always a huge success because of the planning and work which the committees put into it. Duties which the girls assign to themselves include taking tickets at the basketball games and serving as referees at intramural games.

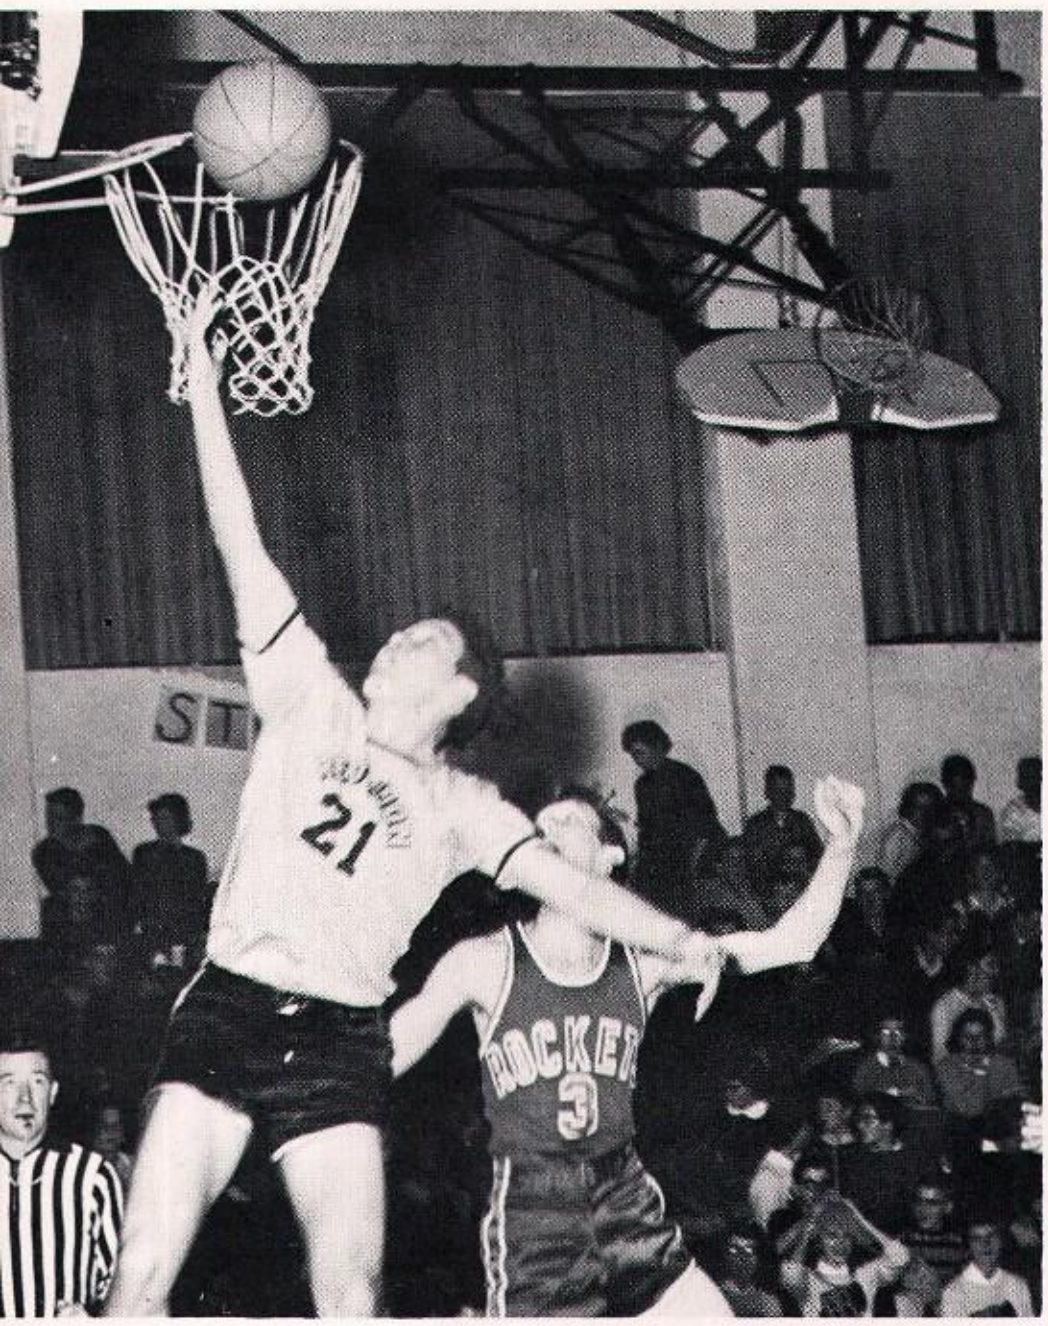
CAGERS WITH SKILL AND SPEED . . .



Cleon Spence drives in for a lay-up against Spring Grove, a game which the Lions lost in a sudden-death period.

Winter brings indoor sports, and nothing is more popular at Red Lion in winter than BASKETBALL. Thirty boys, representing the varsity, junior varsity, and junior high squads, were the best the school had to offer. All three squads had different coaches. The varsity reported in the middle of November to Mr. Ziegler, the J. V.'s to their new coach, Mr. Shellenberger, and the junior high team to Mr. Fitzkee. Each of these teams possessed great possibility in going to the top. The varsity's 14–8 record indicated it could, and did, hold its own among the best. Its best performance of the season was a decisive victory over undefeated Eastern in the first half. The five seniors on the team will be missed in coming seasons, but with other boys coming along, the varsity should have winning teams for years to come. The J. V.'s were the surprise of the league. Finishing in second place with a 17–5 log, these boys were the only team able to beat the champs. They handled themselves well in all situations and in coming years, these boys should have a really good team. The junior high team was a ball of fire until the second half of the schedule when they lost five out of nine and ruined their good record, even though the final log was 12–7.

RACES, JUMPS, RELAYS . . .

For two years county champs, the Lions' TRACK team swung into action in the beginning of March. With only two returning lettermen the thirty-five boys worked hard and proved better than expected. Kennard-Dale, Central, West York, and Dallastown fell on the cinders in rapid succession. In the latter of these the boys put on their best performance of the year, although the meet was won only by the last event. The highest score of the season was run up at Spring Grove. In the county meet the best Red Lion could do was to place second. The first defeat was not the last as Columbia ran wild in the last meet for the varsity team. A bright light in the defeat was Ken Shumaker, who broke his own mile record for the fourth time. The junior high organized for one meet, which, although lost, provided valuable experience which the boys will turn into points in the coming seasons.

"Come down easy; we may need you for next year." Dale Flinchbaugh ties for first place in the Dallastown Meet as Red Lion becomes a surprise victor.

. . . FEMININE TRACK STARS

The difference between winning and losing in a close meet may be determined by the points scored by the GIRLS TRACK team. Annually, in the county meet, they do their share in building a score for R.L.A.H.S. To get themselves in tip-top shape the girls turn out for daily drill after school and must adhere to a strict list of training rules . . . then, suddenly, the thrill of teamwork in competition with other schools.

Nothing is more exciting than a relay . . . Barbara Sechrist and JoAn Finn pass the baton in a practice run.

With the annual track meet in mind, Leoda Eberly works for greater distance in the basketball throw.

RED LION SLUGGERS . . .

BASEBALL, our national pastime, took a turn for the better in the 1957 season at Red Lion Area High. Coach Fitzkee took a twenty-five-man team, including thirteen lettermen, and drilled fundamentals into them until it paid off in a highly successful season. After a 5–5 record the preceding year, the Lions bounced back to an undefeated, 10–0 record and won the Southern Division championship. They lost, however, in the playoff for the county trophy. Starting in the middle of April, the Lions went to work on their opponents. In the first round, Susquehannock and Eastern fell before the mighty paw of the Lions. Dallastown was a little more stubborn but from there on there was hardly any competition. Lower Chanceford, Kennard-Dale, Susquehannock, and Eastern, all became the victims of the Lions, some for the second time. Dallastown was tough again but the boys from Red Lion turned on the steam and left the Wildcats in the dust. Finishing with a win in the Lower Chanceford game, the Lions had an undefeated season under their belts. This qualified them to meet Manchester, the Northern Division leaders, for the county championship. In the championship play-offs at Memorial Stadium in York the Lions put up a good fight but Manchester edged them 2–1 in very close and exciting contest.

Lonnie Barnhart scores another run to help the Lions take Eastern.

Mr. Moore proudly accepts for the school the Southern Division championship trophy from Paul Rodgers and Mr. Fitzkee.

After banging out a hit, John Shaeffer rounds first and heads for second in the game against Eastern.

ON THE GOLF GREENS

Coach Nitchkey gives some of his golfers a few points on the art of driving.

Springtime brings love, rain, flowers, and GOLF. To golf enthusiasts, spring without this game would mean practically nothing. In early April Red Lion Area's golf instructor, Mr. Nitchkey, heads for the Country Club to teach driving, putting, chipping, and other fine points of the game. Of the many amateurs and professionals who go on the links each year, many could take a tip or two from coach Nitchkey. The opposition for the team was tough, but they finished with a 2–4 record, even though the season is short and the practice time is even shorter.

On the practice green Charles Waughtel gives real concentration to his putting.

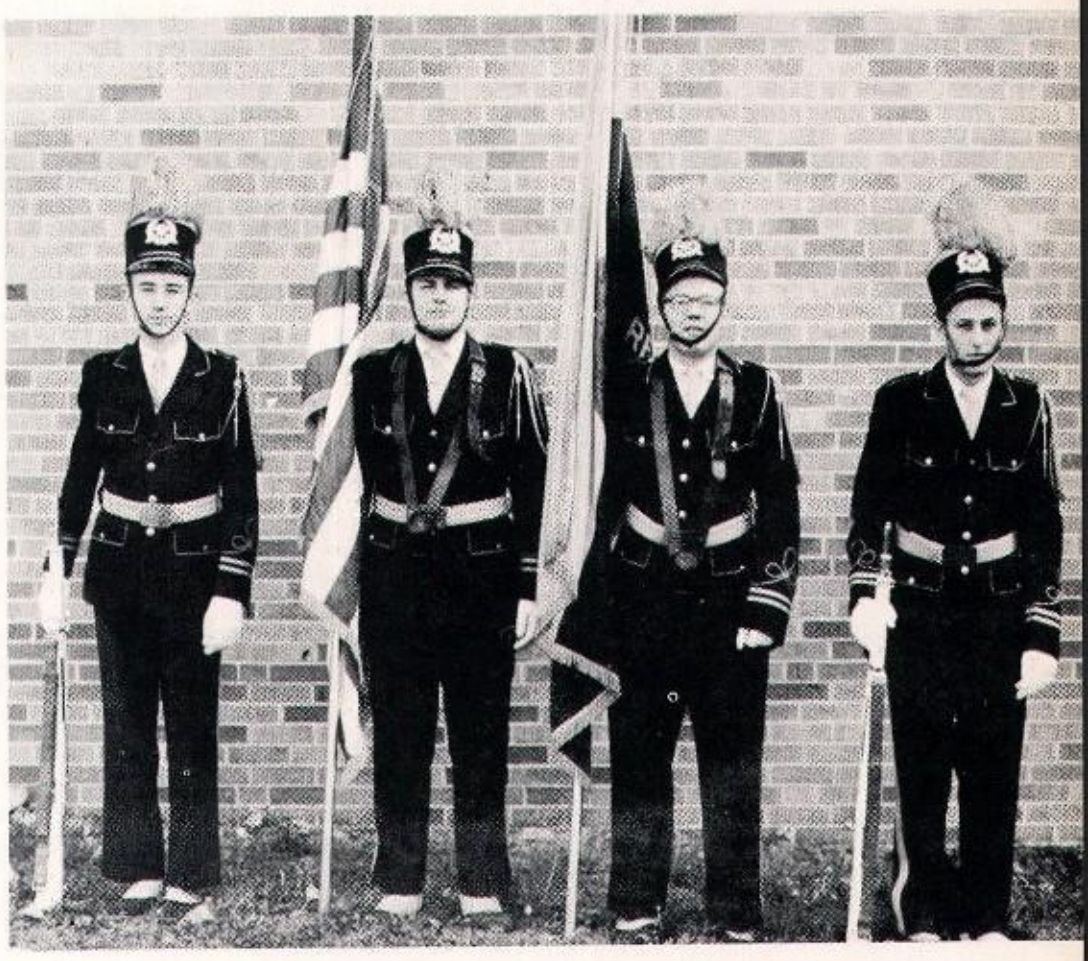
MUSICIANS WITH PEP AND VIGOR . . .

The talented girls and boys who make up the Red Lion Area High School BAND always turn out a fine show worthy of the amount of work and drill that went into it. To prepare for their busy schedule of football games, assemblies, local parades, and other performances, the musicians give up many morning study periods. During this time and at after-school sessions, they practice intricate routines and perfect their timing under the direction of Mr. Ward. Of course, as anyone in the BAND will be quick to agree, there is a lot of fun being a member of this organization and a great sense of achievement when a much rehearsed number receives the applause and praise of their fellow students and friends.

Jean Conn and Joyce Burg receive their uniforms from Mr. Ward, band director, at the beginning of the football season.



Nathan Pickel, Russell Schaeberle, Richard Jacobs, and Dale Alloway make up the color guard for the band.

Red Lion's high stepping majorettes—Ruth Ann Keller, Barbara Keller, JoAn Finn, Betty Foster, Mary Beth Flinchbaugh, Joyce Burg, Gail Holtzinger, Leoda Eberly, LaDawn Fix, Lana Strickler.

. . . CONCERT PERFORMANCES

Although our marching group is best known, Red Lion has many other instrumental organizations which, though smaller in size, produce sounds which are indeed pleasant to the ears. The ORCHESTRA performs at a few assemblies, the Night of Music, and of course, commencement, adding a dignified touch with its lilting airs. This organization is supervised, as are the others, by Mr. George Ward. The ASSEMBLY BAND is greatly appreciated for its stirring tunes at the beginning and end of assemblies. The DANCE BAND swings into sweet music at various dances throughout the school year. As for the JUNIOR BAND, there is a group of ambitious students. Their ambition—the senior group, naturally!

VOICES BLENDED IN SONG . . .

The Girls Chorus adds a bright note to the halls during the Christmas season with their joyful carols.

Opportunity for developing any vocal talents which may still be hidden is provided by the many singing groups of Red Lion High. The SENIOR HIGH MIXED CHORUS, GIRLS CHORUS, and GIRLS ENSEMBLE, all directed by Mrs. Adams, are organizations which are open only to senior high students. Performing in assemblies, town functions, and at the Night of Music, these folks have a thoroughly enjoyable time, as do their audiences. Not to be overlooked is the JUNIOR HIGH CHORUS, whose youthful voices can be heard harmonizing every Monday on the stage of the gym under the direction of Mr. Goodman. Indeed, for almost everyone who likes to sing, there is a place.

. . . PRACTICE FOR PERFECTION

The cream of the vocal crop, consisting of twelve members of the Girls Ensemble, practices for their first trip to Forensics.

A CHANCE TO PROVE THEMSELVES

The annual NIGHT OF MUSIC, held in the spring of each year, attracts people from miles around. Bands and choruses join forces for an evening (to be exact, two; for double scheduling is usually required) filled with entertainment in which the musical talent of the school is featured. From September to May the students look forward to this event and the satisfaction received from the performance more than compensates for the necessary endless repetition of numbers in practice.

Directing the band for this number is the student conductor, Donald Frey, previously selected by his fellow musicians.

The Mixed Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Adams, gives several selections during the evening's program.

SENIORS ENTERTAIN WITH COMEDY

Many hilariously good times as well as the usual worry and stage fright went into the production of this year's SENIOR PLAY, "Tish", directed by Mr. Richard Baldwin. Tish, an outspoken, lovable, middle-aged spinster, decides to "lead the simpler life." While doing this she becomes involved in escapades ranging from playing detective to being called a spy by Mexico. In the end everything is straightened out, including the romances of several young couples in the story.

Tish, Patty Grove, has just had a narrow escape in a car wreck but Aggie, Helen Weir, and Lizzie, Sonia Smith, have their hands full trying to keep her still.

Charlie Sands, Bob Neely, has just entered the Eagle Hotel and he quickly gets a thorough tongue lashing from his aunt in the presence of the owner of the hotel, Ellen Leighton, Carole Frey, and some of her guests.

JUNIORS, WITH DRAMATIC TRAGEDY

Exciting experiences faced the juniors in the production of their play, "The People vs. Maxine Lowe." A real thriller, it is the story of Maxine Lowe, on trial for the murder of her husband. At first it seems like an open-and-shut case, but suddenly, when things look blackest, a surprise witness takes the stand and the mysterious past begins to clear up. This tense, exciting courtroom drama, with the jury actually sitting on the stage, kept the audience on the edge of their seats until the very end.

Joyce Snyder, Maxine Lowe, pleads with the judge not to believe the testimony of Nancy Newcomer, Sarah Lorrison, who has come to testify on Maxine's behalf.

The lawyers for the prosecution look on while Armand Conaway, defense attorney, tries unsuccessfully to break down the testimony of the witness, Barry Smeltzer.

ROUGH AND TUMBLE

Exhibition at half time of the Dallastown game . . . Ted Miller is caught in mid air doing a back flip while some Varsity Club members act as spotters.

Rope-climbing, work on the trampoline and springboard, flips, head stands and hand stands, different rolls on the mats—these are the order of the day when members of the BOYS TUMBLING CLUB take over the gym on Tuesday morning. After a few weeks of practice under the careful eye of Mr. Fitzkee they are doing exercises that far surpass the ones done in regular gym classes. Their aim—to build stronger bodies; their special appearances—the spring gym revue, Orientation Day, the Lion's Club dinner, and just about anywhere, anytime, that something unusual is desired in entertainment.

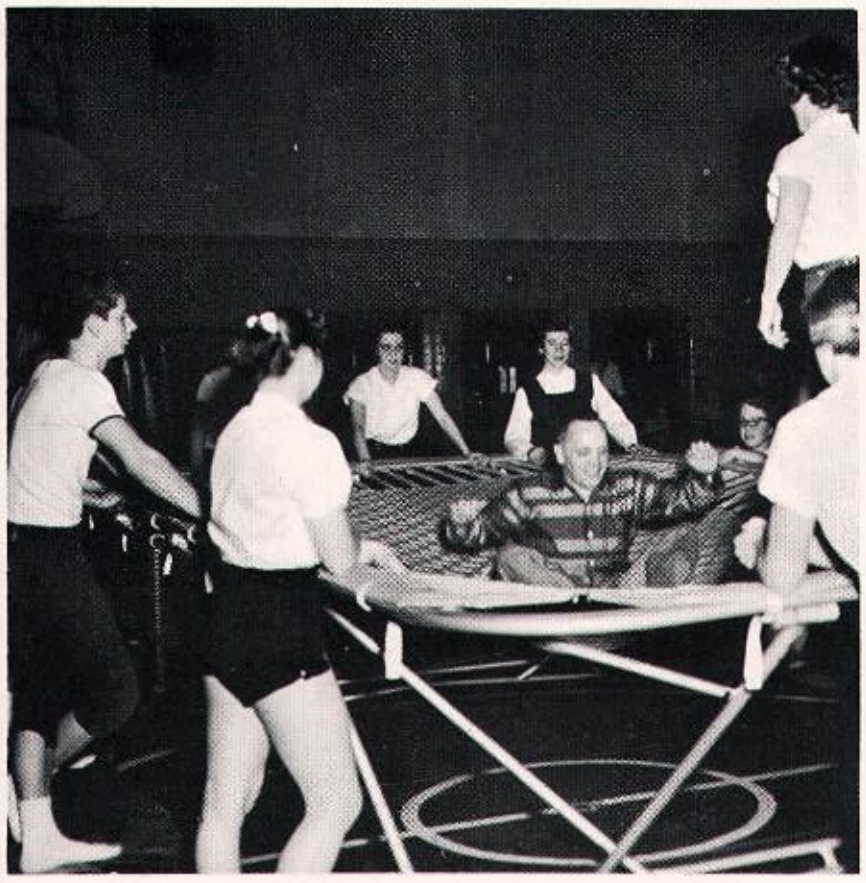
EXCITEMENT GALORE



Guests have an opportunity to judge whether action on the tramp is as easy as it looks; Spurgeon Stein gives it a try.

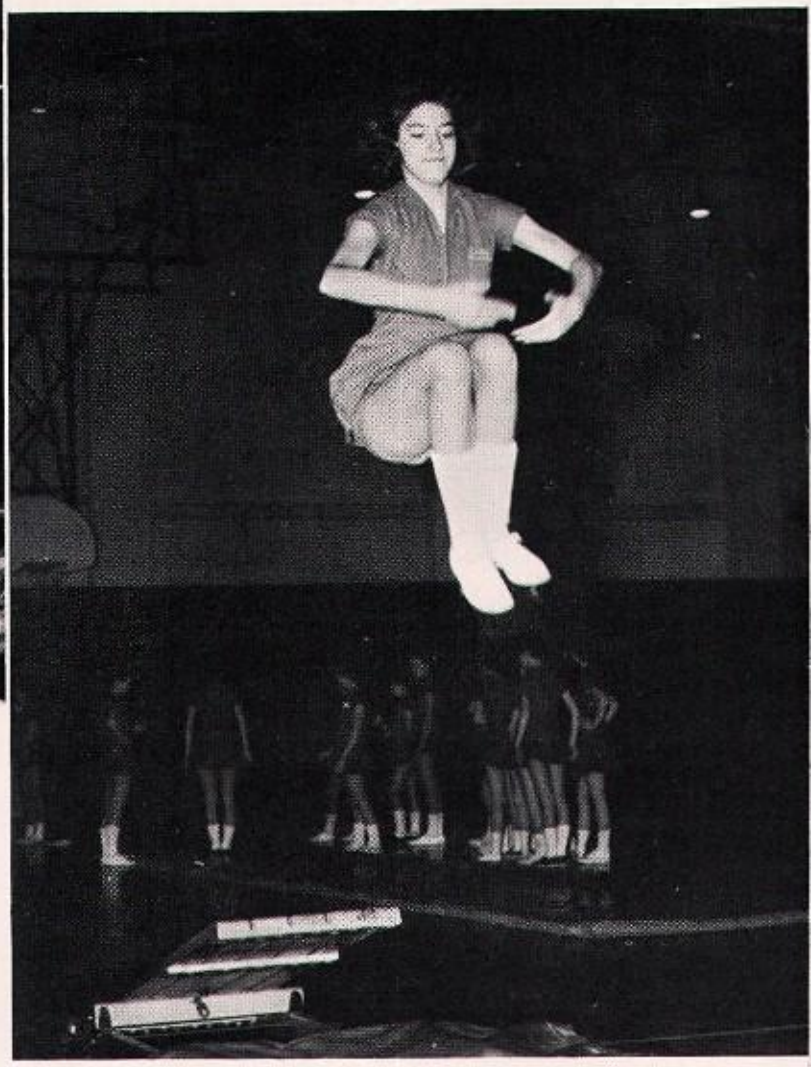
Ted Miller executes a perfect back flip at the spring gym revue.

'He sails through the air with the greatest of ease; the daring young man on the flying— rampoline?" Something new and very interesting was added to the GYM REVUE of 1957, and this something was a performance by some of our high school students on the trampoline. In addition to this, the boys and girls of Red Lion High attempted to outdo each other by demonstrating their abilities in dancing, marching, tumbling, games, relays, and exercise drills. The four physical education instructors were in charge of the evening, which provided an enjoyable time for all and also an opportunity for the parents to get a firsthand view of the abilities of this younger generation.

And the finale comes as members of the Boys Tumbling Club build a replica from old Egypt, the traditional pyramid.

GIRLS HAVE THEIR SHARE

Joy Pickel, Marvel McCleary, and Paula Hibbert share the trampoline, making the tricks three times as hard, but more important, three times the fun.



Jumping from the springboard, Carolyn Flinchbaugh gracefully performs a "cannon ball" in mid-air.

Many of the more athletically-minded girls of Red Lion High belong to a group known as the GIRLS TUMBLING CLUB. Besides performing in the gym revue, the most important item on their program, they sometimes entertain at half-time of basketball games. As advisors Miss Mitchell, Mrs. Zarfos, and all the girls would agree, the fun far outweighs the work.

AWARDS FOR ACHIEVEMENT . . .

Forensics winners who will go to Harrisburg to compete in state finals—Charles Daugherty, Rodney Sechrist, Larry E. Smith, Joyce Burg, Larry R. Smith, William DeShong, and Gordon Spurley.

Mr. Ward gives band letters to Dave Knisely and Jim Olp, two of the persons who qualified for them.

Mr. Ziegler hands Cleon Spence his basketball letter as the other members of the team look on. Russ Urey holds the trophy for being the Most Valuable Player on the squad.

Left: Two members of the 1957 N. A. S. S. were Lonnie Barnhart, receiving award from Mr. Moore, and Woodrow Dellinger. Right: Part of a spring assembly involves the presentation of letters. Here, Mr. Sample is giving a letter to Earl Burg for his fine job in track.

By active participation in sports, choruses, and band nearly everyone is given the opportunity to work for and receive a letter. In addition, there is the NATIONAL ATHLETIC SCHOLARSHIP SOCIETY for high school athletes. To become eligible for this, a boy must hold a letter earned in varsity competition and be good in the classroom as well. So, hats off to them all.

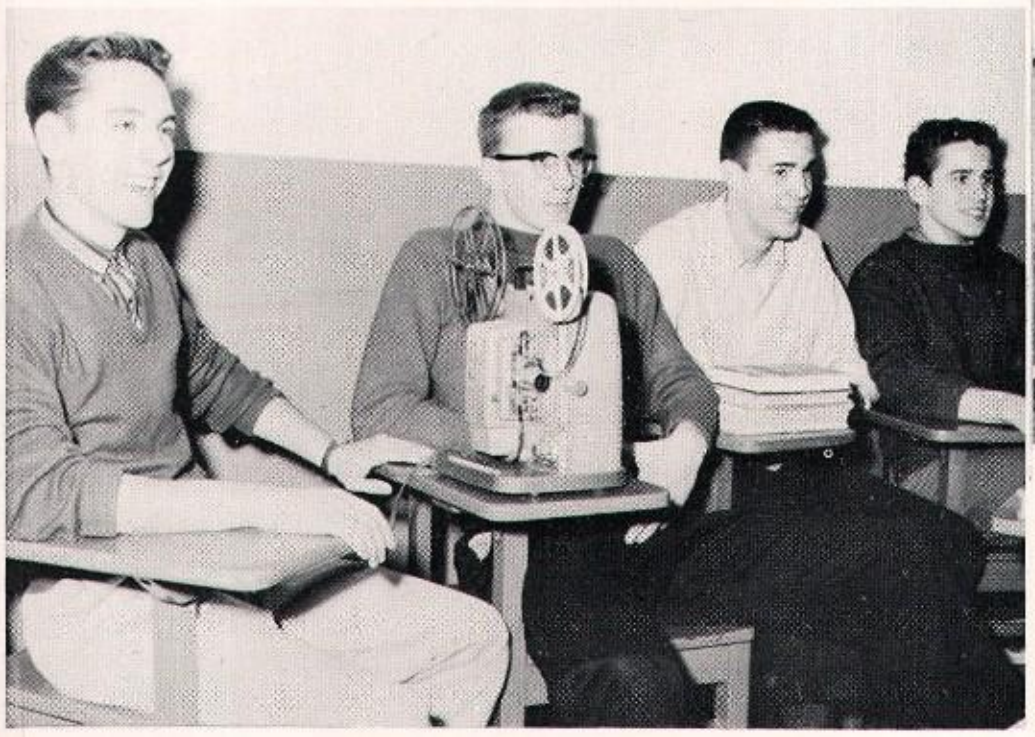
. . . ALSO ATHLETIC PROWESS

Over twenty of our young athletes have attained eligibility for the VARSITY CLUB by virtue of rating a varsity letter. Together with Mr. Fitzkee and Mr. Shellenberger they discuss attendance and sportsmanship at games and during basketball season prepare programs for spectators.



New members are welcomed by the officers of the club upon completion of their initiation requirements.

Bill Freeman, Bill Grove, Armand Conaway, and Barry Smeltzer get a chuckle out of the antics of the Harlem Globetrotters, one of the many films shown to the lettermen.

GRADUATES of the 3 R's

These are the seniors, the ones who such a short time ago were underclassmen. Now, they have successfully mastered their courses in the 3 R's. As they receive their diplomas at commencement time they must remember that commencement is only the beginning, for although they have finished here the more important things are still in the future. In their years at Red Lion they have gained not only book learning, which in itself is very valuable, but also practical knowledge in living and getting along with people.

During their lives they will be called upon time after time to use the principles learned in the 3 R's . . . rubbing elbows with friends, neighbors, and business acquaintances . . . racking their brains for new ideas in their various lines of work . . . and finally, in the busy days of this twentieth century, they must be raring to go from one activity to another. This all lies ahead, but the seniors are confident that whatever situation arises, they will be able to handle it, because the 3 R's have given them a pretty solid foundation.

Janitors for Student Day—Bob Beaverson, Dean Ehrhart, and Harry Edie—take over the jobs of sweeping the halls and cleaning the lights.

As he tears up the aisle during the special yearbook assembly, Donald Gipe impresses on his audience the fact that the price of the book this year includes nine cents tax money.

"WE FINISH, TO BEGIN"

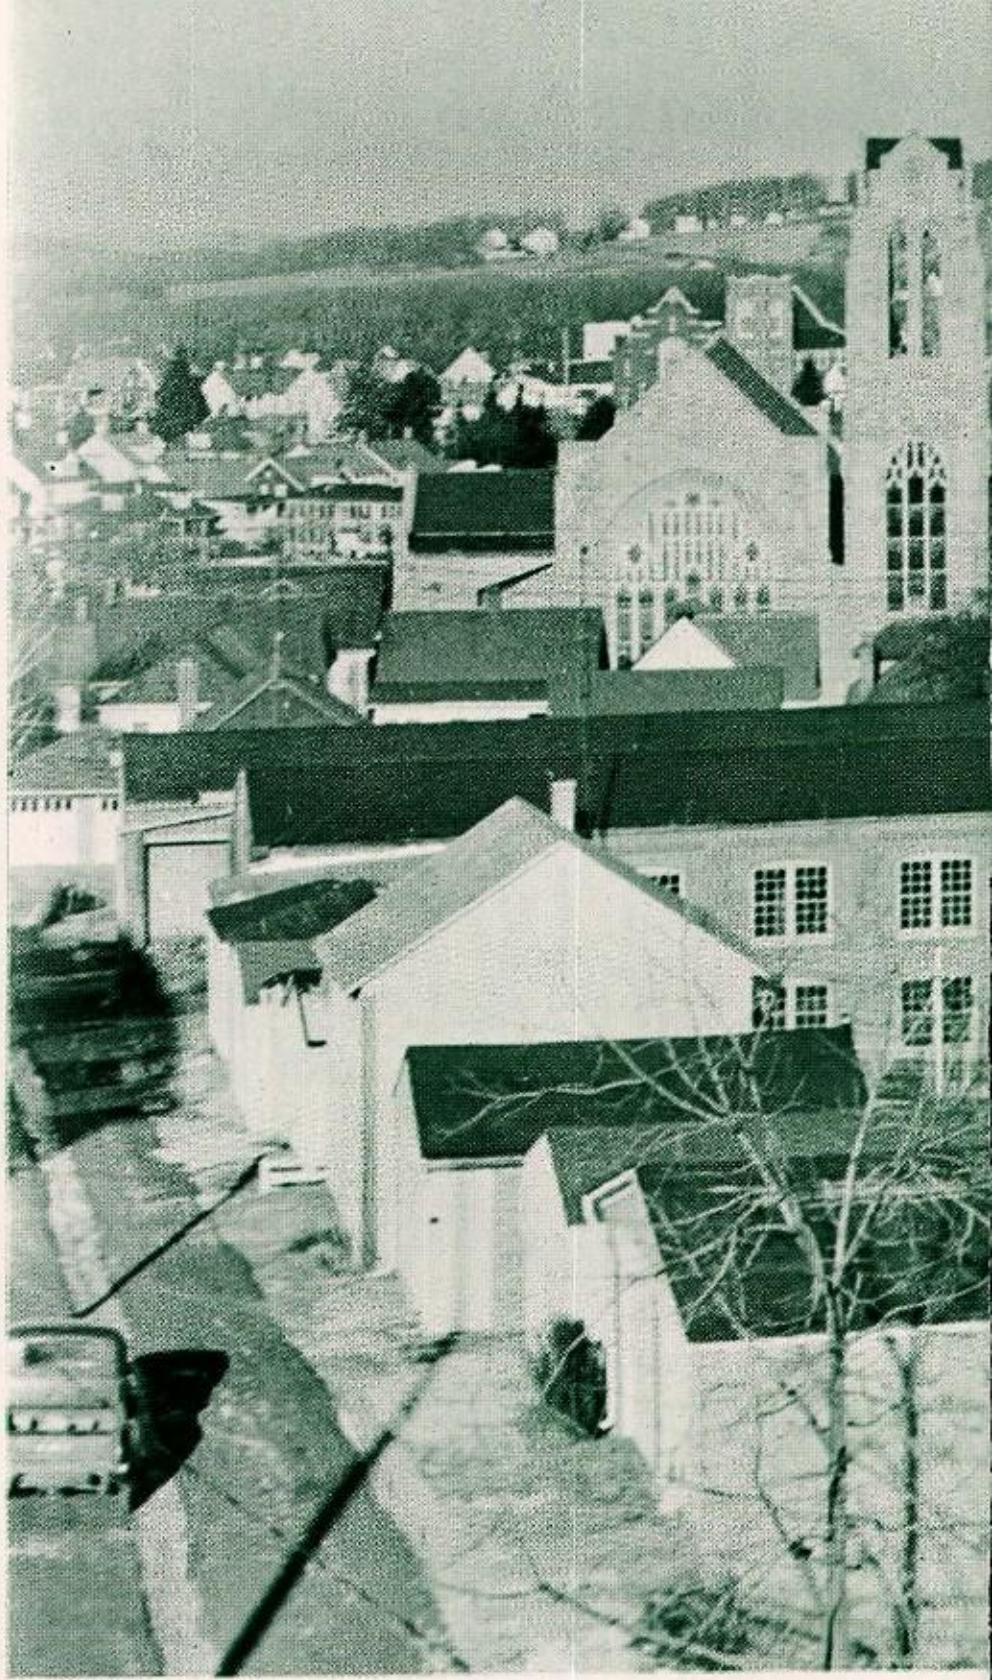
With the successful completion of the three R's behind us, the SENIORS of 1958 have reached the end of our high school days. It seems only yesterday that we were freshmen facing new and frightening high school schedules. Now, with class day, baccalaureate, and commencement imminent, we find ourselves quite reluctant to leave Red Lion High. Two things we will carry with us always—our endless memories of each wonderful experience in growing up and the priceless friendships made in these halls and classrooms. Having "entered to learn," and having encountered and mastered the knowledge which we sought, we will now "leave to serve" to the very best of our abilities.

Gwen Getz, Gail Holtzinger, Donna Waltermyer, Nancy Reider, and Ruth Knudson get a taste of commencement activities as they present roses to last year's graduates.

"Homemaker of the Year" of Red Lion Area High is the honor bestowed upon Lois Newcomer by Mrs. Laucks, home economics instructor.

"My, what we have to go through to have school called off!" However, Gail Nalbandian, Jolene Grove, Gwen Getz, and Sue Nalbandian seem to feel it is well worth the trouble.

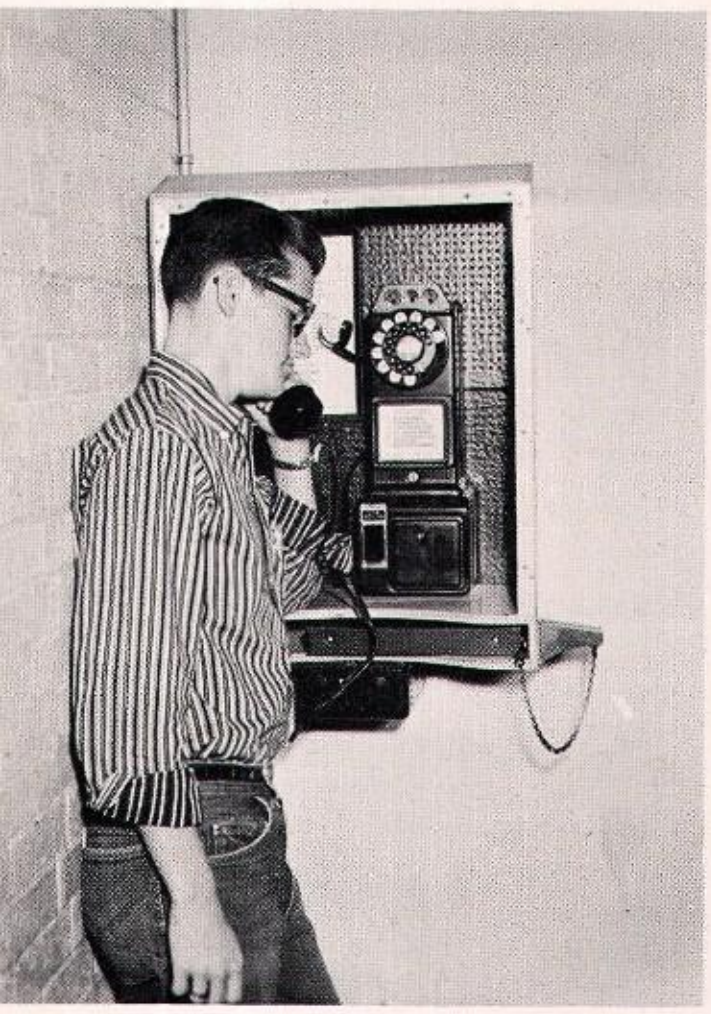
PATRONS



To these patrons and other helpful persons, the senior class of R.L.A.H.S. expresses its sincere gratitude, for without their financial help and understanding it would have been most difficult to publish the 1958 Lion in its present form. There would have been a yearbook of course, but, thanks to this special backing, the staff has been able to include many extras which make the '58 Lion more interesting and attractive.

Friendly townspeople and alumni have been helpful in many ways. Perhaps they remember when they were in school struggling to make a success of projects and activities and they enjoy seeing the attempts put forth by this younger generation. From athletic events to class plays . . . from music concerts to the gym revue . . . they lend a helping hand whenever their support is needed. So, to the many patrons of Red Lion High, thanks!

THANKS AGAIN



We hope this engrossed young man, Rodney Jamison, isn't talking secrets to his favorite gal . . . the school phone booth isn't exactly private.

Graduation time is in the very near future . . . Joan Shelley and Linda Sprenkle have measurements for caps and gowns taken by Mr. and Mrs. Sheckart.

Just about anything can happen in the gym, but the stage has limitations . . . so, the band is relegated to the floor for its practice while the stage crew puts final touches to the background for the junior play. Not shown, but reportedly involved, the Girls Tumbling Club practices in another corner.

Construction progresses rapidly on the new senior high school building, scheduled to be completed for the 1959-60 term.

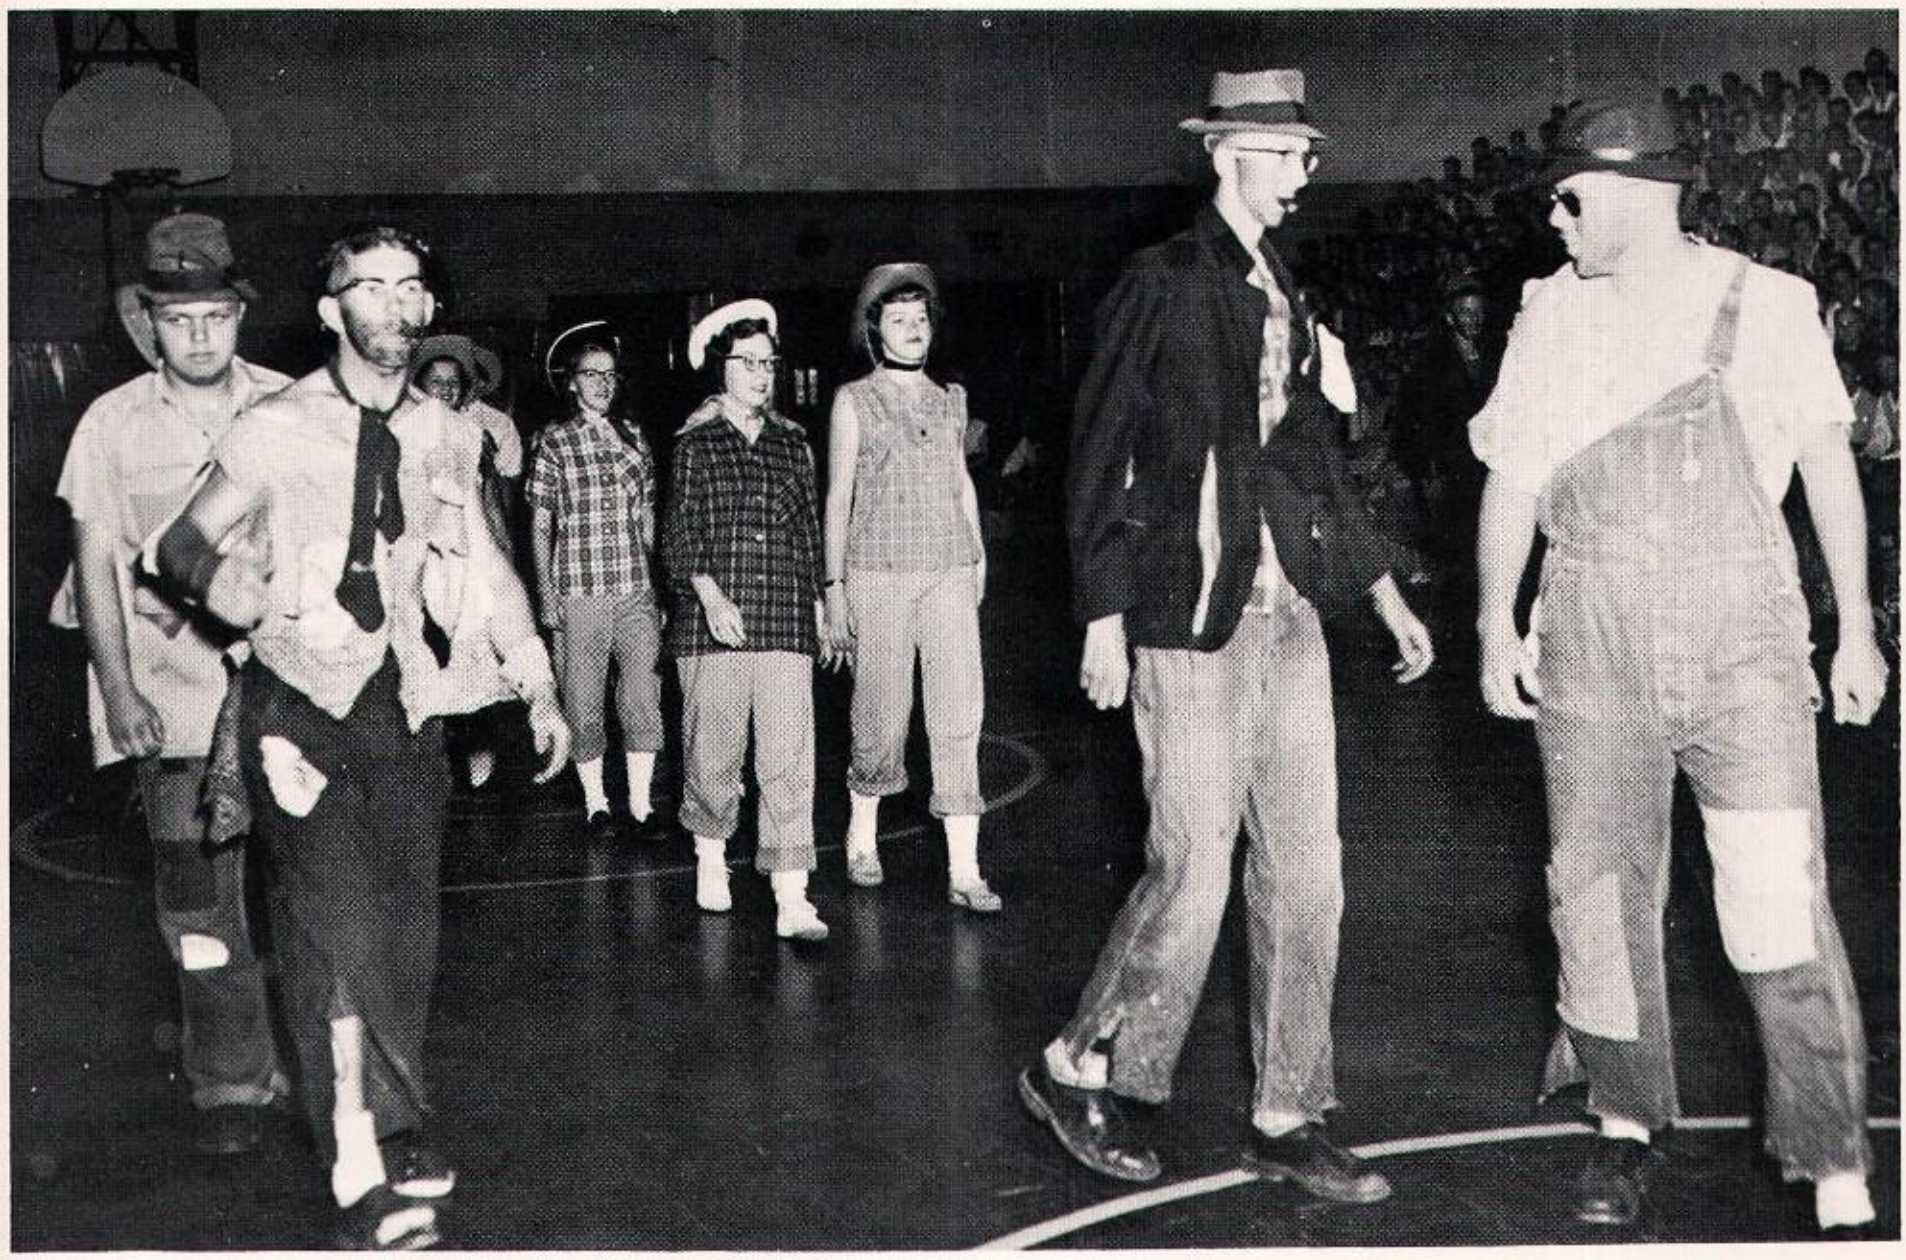
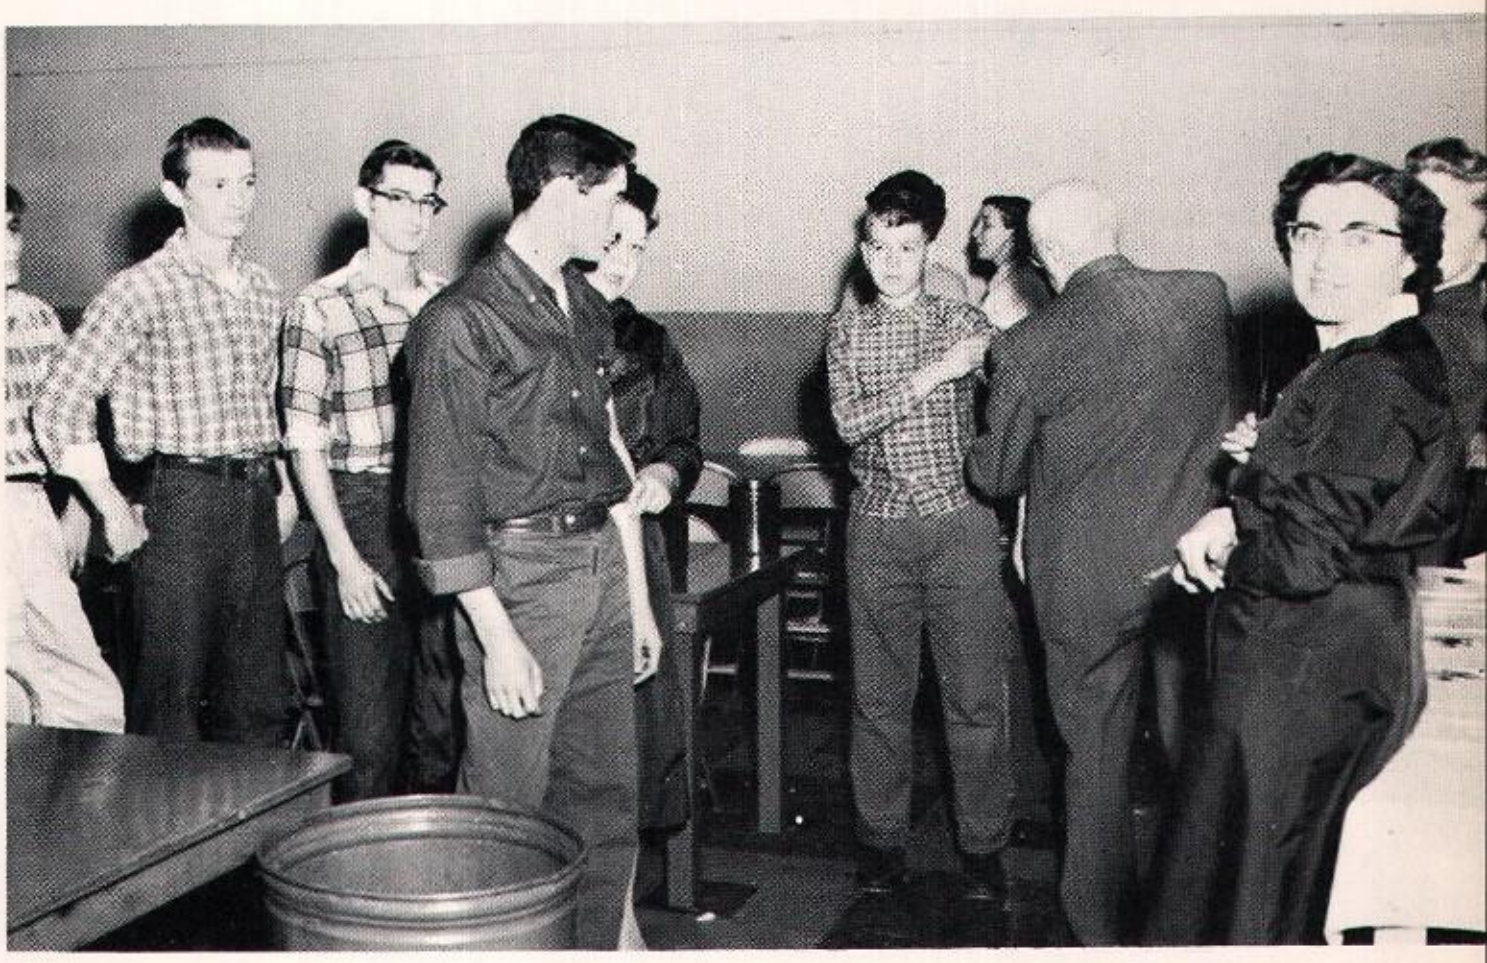
AROUND SCHOOL



These wistful tramps—Wayne Gohn, Glenn Altland, Harold Smeltzer, and Robert Watson—add humor and life to the '57 Class Day.



Dr. Atkins, aided by several nurses, administers polio shots to the students.

And so the staff writes finis to another school annual and another year of classes and activities at Red Lion Area High School. For the seniors, these pages will bring back memories of perhaps the happiest, at least the busiest, year of school; for all, we trust, pleasure in recalling the trials and tribulations of the students as they pursue their course in the 3 R's—RUBBING ELBOWS, RACKING BRAINS, and RARING TO GO.
